West Andover Office Park Proposal Arouses Concerns

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Another West Andover office park may be in the works, but the Planning Board is concerned that it could be one office park too many for the River Road area to bear, the Community Development and Planning director has indicated.

Developer Anthony Tambone, Jr. of the Tambone Corp., Stoneham, met with the planners Tuesday night to describe his preliminary plans for "Andover Office and Research Park." The proposed four-building industrial subdivision would be located on a 34-acre parcel off River Road and Old River Road, across from the Wang site in West Andover Industrial Tech Park.

Tambone currently has an option on the site, owned by Jaymi Realty Trust, the developer said Monday. The parcel is not part of the Tech Park, which was developed by Arkwright-Boston Insurance. Like Tech Park, however, it is zoned Industrial D, the most restrictive industrial zoning.

Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore said yesterday that the planners expect Tambone to formally submit preliminary plans for the office park by the end of next month. This week's informal meeting gave them a preview of what their major concern is likely to be, he said: traffic and parking.

The narrow roadway already handles "80 percent of the traffic that comes off Route 93," Gilmore said. With traffic heading for the Tech Park already considerable, and with Arkwright reserving a nearby site for a potential hotel and office complex, the addition of Tambone's office park could create "a big problem," he explained.

Besides the adequacy of the road, adequate parking was another concern. Gilmore said.

Tambone said he would like to build four one- and two-story buildings, depending on how many tenants he can attract, totalling up to 325,000 square feet of office space. He will seek office and research and development tenants — high tech industries, for example — to occupy the "first-class" brick buildings.

He would expect construction to begin some time next year, Tambone added, but does not yet have a cost estimate for the proposed project.

The planners found the proposal, as drawn by Bill Jones of the Dana F. Perkins Associates engineering firm, "well designed," Gilmore said. "It looks attractive, in a similar vein to other things in the area. They were pleased to hear about plans for an office, research and development manufacturing space."

But they were also worried about maintaining tight control over an industrial subdivision that the developer would like to build a little at a time, in response to market conditions, the director indicated.

"Tambone is looking for maximum flexibility," he explained. "He wants to stage construction to be able to respond to market forces. So he is looking to come in by Oct. 20 with a proposal for a subdivision of perhaps one lot."

"This has left the board kind of scratching its head — the question they have is, how can we control the roads, traffic and parking for the entire area, if it is not laid out beforehand? There will probably be a

Conservation Savings Encouraging

The school committee will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Shawsheen School, and on the agenda are some encouraging statistics about fuel savings at the South Elementary School.

Maintenance and energy conservation measures at the school over the past few years have resulted in fuel consumption of 16,000 gallons in 1981-82 as compared to 40,310 in 1978-79, according to Schools Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert.

At each school committee meeting,

Seifert plans to present a maintenance report concerning a different Andover school.

Also on tonight's agenda is information on enrollment and staffing. There has been a decline in enrollment, according to Seifert, but not as much as was projected.

Eugene Frulla, director of student computer services, will tell the school committee about his plans for the coming year in the computer area.

The citizens advisory committee will also be discussed.

Gravel Pit Hearing Postponed

A public hearing on the renewal of developer Yvon Cormier's gravel removal permit for his Andover Country Club subdivision has been postponed for at least two weeks.

The hearing was scheduled for Monday night at Town Hall, but the town manager has called it off because all abutters of the subdivision have not been notified of the hearing.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony emphasized that it was the developer's responsibility to notify abutters of the hearing; the town fulfilled its responsibility by advertising the meeting, he explained.

The manager said it would take two or three weeks to reschedule and readvertise the hearing.

When the hearing is held, the selectmen will consider renewing Cormier's gravel removal permit for the second time. The yearly license was originally granted in June 1980.

Abutters of the development — which is bounded by Lowell, Beacon and Canterbury streets and Chandler Circle — are likely to attend the hearing in large numbers. Neighbors have complained of problems caused by construction since work began on the site about three years ago.

With the public hearing, expected to be a long one, struck from the agenda, the selectmen's Monday meeting will include discussion of only a few routine matters, according to the manager.

No Sailors Among The Selectmen

Selectmen Chairman Norma Gammon gave it a good try, but during a recent selectmen's meeting she couldn't manage to recruit anyone to compete in Saturday's Lowell sailing regatta for local municipal officials.

Two years ago, former town manager Jared S.A. Clark sailed in the regatta, with Selectman Jerry Silverman along for ballast, and took home a trophy. This year, however, like last year, Andover's town government will not be represented in the regatta.

Silverman said he would be unable to participate this weekend, while Gammon said she and Town Manager Kenneth Mahony "are not going near any more water" after their dunk tank experience on the Fourth of July. The chairman tried to persuade Selectmen Byrne, Dalton and Harris to volunteer, but to no avail.

"We'll have to tell them we're all afraid of the water," Gammon said, shaking her head.

Band Parents Feature Open House, Movie

Parents of the Andover High School Marching Band will kick off the fall season with a meeting tonight at the high school at 7:30 p.m. This will include an open house for new parents and other interested persons, as well as the movie of the band's Florida performance of last February and slides and videotaped highlights of the recent "Band Camp" at Camp Nokomis on Bear Island, Lake Winnepesaukee.

The band parents have organized into the Andover Band Association, Inc., a parents' group which according to their bylaws is dedicated to "aide, support, encourage and promote an enthusiastic interest of parents, residents and students in the Andover High School Marching

Drunk Driving Demonstration To Be Given At Airport

"In virtually every auto accident case we treat in the emergency room at least one driver has been drinking," commented Wendy Jewett, RN, Lawrence General Hospital (LGH) emergency department head nurse. And if you've been reading the press or listening to the news lately, it may seem like every auto accident is a tragic story with alcohol involved.

At the drunk driving demonstration on Sunday, Sept. 26, at 1 p.m. at the Lawrence Airport in North Andover, the hospital's Alcohol Safety Action Program (ASAP) and the Merrimack Valley police departments of Andover, Boxford, Haverhill, Lawrence, Methuen, North Andover and Salem, N.H., the story will be enlightening.

Seven volunteer drivers will drive a course three times in front of an audience: once sober, once after drinking and once again after drinking to the stage of being legally drunk.

"Most of us swear we would never get behind the wheel of a car and drive if we were drunk, but we do drive if we've been drinking. We're not preaching for you to stop drinking but to be responsible about it," stated Jewett.

"Drinking and driving is not a new problem. It's been around for a long time, but it's getting lots of press now because of the push for the new law, she added.

"Even after one drink or one beer (one shot of liquor—1½oz.—is equal in alcohol content to one beer) you begin to lose coordination. The average person can't drink any more than three to four drinks and drive safely," said Sherry Seidel, LGH director of ASAP.

"A lot of people don't know when they've had too much to drink. They forget that alcohol is a drug and can alter their thinking process so they continue drinking beyond the point where they realize how they are feeling. That's when they should let a friend drive or call a cab," continued Seidel.

"Don't judge whether you can drive by how you feel but by how much you've been drinking over what period of time. That's how you become a responsible drinker. You know how many drinks you have had and that tells you whether you should drive," Seidel said.

The drunk driving demonstration involves a varied cast of volunteers who are all different sizes and ages to illustrate to the audience how alcohol affects each one and that even before they feel they've exceeded their drinking capacity they've already lost coordination and their driving is affected.

"One of our particular goals with this demonstration are teenagers so they'll see that drinking and driving is a dangerous combination and stay away from it. We're having a special demonstration for them on Tuesday, Sept. 28. Many of the Merrimack Valley high schools are sending their seniors to this demonstration," Jewett said.

Sunday's demonstration is free and open to the public. Make a day of it — bring a blanket or lawn chair to sit upon. Captain Port of the Massachusetts State Police and the No Name Players of the Woburn-Lowell cable TV show "Generic Laugh" will be co-hosts. Refreshments will be available, but please refrain from bringing any alcohol onto the Lawrence Airport premises.

Chiropractic and Sciatica

Sciatica (pain radiating from the back to the buttock and down the back of the leg), is an uncomfortable and physically inconvenient condition. It arises from irritation to the sciatic nerve which exits the spine in the lumbosacral region. Because spinal misalignments, muscular imbalance, and poor postural habits all cause sciatica, chiropractic adjustments can often-times correct the cause thereby eliminating the discomfort and stopping progressive nerve damage.

Appointed Director At Hospital

Susan Brennan, a native of Andover, has been appointed director of social services at Bournewood Hospital, a private psychiatric hospital in Brookline, according to Dr. Nasir A. Khan, director. Brennan, formerly chief social worker at the New England Medical Center and now a Boston resident, assumed her new duties at Bournewood in July.

A graduate of both the University of Indiana, with a Bachelor of Science degree, and Oberlin College in Ohio, with a Bachelor of Music degree, Brennan also holds a Master's degree in Social Work from Boston University. She has worked at the Bay Cove Mental Health Center and been a rehabilitation counselor for the State of California.

Brennan is a member of the National Association of Social Workers and Social Workers for Nuclear Disarmament, as well as on the executive committee of the Bay Village Neighborhood Association in Boston.

Bournewood Hospital, founded in 1884, is a 90-bed, acute treatment hospital which accepts patients, mainly from Eastern Massachusetts, who range from adolescents to the elderly with a variety of emotional problems. It is licensed by the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health.

The Massachusetts Audubon Society offers courses and workshops for adults, children and families. Some of the highlights include a family song and story fest, a Halloween celebration, after-school nature programs for children, courses for adults in wilderness survival, basketry, fall in field, wood and pond, watercolor for naturalists, Cape Ann vacation weekend and an array of guided walks. For a complete brochure describing all programs, write the Massachusetts Audubon Society, 346 Grapevine Road, Wenham, MA 01984.

College Fair At Merrimack

More than 8,000 high school seniors, parents, teachers and guidance counselors are expected to attend a college fair Tuesday, Sept. 21, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Wednesday, Sept. 22, from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the S. Peter Volpe Physical Education Center at Merrimack College in North Andover.

Representatives from more than 200 colleges and universities will be available to answer questions and supply information about their respective institutions.

"Parents and students will be able to obtain first-hand information on college curriculums, financial aid, career development and other related topics," explained Dr. E. Joseph Lee, Merrimack's dean of admissions and financial aid.

The college fair, co-sponsored by Merrimack College and the New England Association of College Admissions Counselors (NEACAC) for the fourth consecutive year, is one of 14 major regional college fairs to be presented by NEACAC and host colleges and universities throughout New England this fall.

Merrimack College is located at the junction of Rtes. 114 and 125, off Rtes. 495 and 93 in North Andover.

THE END IS NEAR.

All Savers Certificates opened last fall are coming due.

Andover Bank thinks it's time you reviewed your options. Because the All Savers Certificate you opened last fall is now coming due.

During the past year, you've earned tax-free interest with an All Savers Certificate. But the one-year term will soon be past. So now is the time to begin planning for the re-investment of your funds.

Open another All Savers Certificate.

If you have not yet earned the legal limit of tax-free interest in the All Savers program, it may pay you to re-invest in another one-year certificate. You can open one for as little as $500, and every penny will be insured by the F.D.I.C.

You're entitled to up to $2,000 in tax-free interest if you file a joint federal income tax return. Or up to $1,000 if you file an individual return.

You receive 70% of the rate set at the most recent auction of the one-year U.S. Treasury Bill. To see exactly how much that can mean for you, study the table at right.

Earn super market rates.

Andover Bank also offers a variety of other savings and investment programs: 91-Day Certificates, 6-Month Certificates, 30-Month Certificates, Repurchase Agreements and Savings Bank Life Insurance Annuities. Chances are, we can tailor a program around your family's financial needs.

Give us a call. Better yet, stop into any office of Andover Bank for complete information and details on All Savers Certificates and money market interest rates. The end is near for your present All Savers Certificate. And it's time to review your options with Andover Bank.

Bikes Offered At Sale

Everything from mittens to bicycles is expected to be available at the Ski, Skate and Sporting Goods Sale run by Andover Recycling at the Pike School gym on Sunset Rock Road, Andover. Items, including outerwear, will be taken in on consignment on Wednesday, Sept. 22, from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. and Thursday, Sept. 23, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Consignors are asked to set their own selling prices, if possible, and to be sure that the size is clearly marked on each item.

The sale will be held Thursday, Sept. 23, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Friday, Sept. 24, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 25, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Consignors should pick up money and/or unsold items by noon on Saturday, Sept. 25.

The Ski and Skate Sale has been an important fall event in Andover for many years. This year's sale, bigger and better than ever, offers consignors and buyers a good deal. Consignors receive 2/3 of the selling price of their goods as well as a heavily patronized marketplace. Buyers get an excellent bargain and an opportunity to try a new sport with minimal investment. For further information, call Mrs. Paul Hollenbeck or any of the recycling numbers, except Town Hall on the current calendar.

T-Shirts Donated For Road Race

The Andover Savings Bank donated the funds for specially designed tee shirts to be given to the first 300 entrants in the Sunday, Oct. 3, Bancroft Road Race and Fun Run. Entry blanks are available at stores sponsoring the event: Feet First, Cole's Hardware, Earthfood, Victor Realty and the Andover Sports Shop. Blanks are also available at Bancroft School, Andover and Lawrence YMCAs, Berke's in Andover, Cedardale and sporting goods stores in the Greater Lawrence area.

Official race numbers for either race will be mailed to each entrant if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is sent with the entry form to: Jim Kikiles, 11 Pasho St., Andover, MA 01810. Race numbers may also be picked up on race day.

The Fun Run (2K or 1.24 miles) will start at Bancroft School at 12 noon and cover a course suitable for all ages. Certificates will be given to all finishers, and medals will be awarded to the first three finishers in six grade categories. Entry fee is $1.

Training Program

The Women's Resource Center, a United Fund agency, offers a training program for women who wish to volunteer to do supportive counseling with women who have been abused in the home. Training will begin Tuesday, Sept. 21, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. for seven consecutive Tuesday evenings at the center's offices at the Lawrence YWCA.

Training is free and covers a variety of topics including an overview of the problem of woman abuse, information on legal alternatives for the battered woman, discussion on recognizing personal values as well as role plays and participatory exercises to sharpen listening skills and explore the issues involved in crisis intervention.

Most women who complete the training will work from their homes, staffing the center's Hotline on nights and weekends, although some may choose to work in the office during the day. No experience is necessary.

Pepsi and Colombo Yougurt will donate refreshments to all runners.

The 10K Road Race will start at 12:30 p.m. Accurate splits will be given at 1, 3.1 and 5 mile marks. Water will be available at the 3.1 mile mark. Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in eight age/sex categories. See entry blank for further details and course map. Entry fee is $4.

The Bancroft PTO has allocated all receipts from this fund-raising event toward the purchase of a microcomputer for their computer literacy program.

Other community sponsors include Capital Distributing, Inc., Intertel Corp., Naiman Press, Inc., Raytheon, the REACT volunteer organization and North Shore Printing.

The annual growth rings on coral may be the most complete record of this planet's natural history. Exhibit Gives Images Of Andover

By Virginia Lopez Begg

An autumn walk at Indian Ridge, the St. Patrick's Day parade in Lawrence, ice skating on Haggett's Pond—these pleasant images of Andover life today are ones we share with the Andover of more than a century ago.

Life in Andover in the 1860s is recaptured in an exhibit opening Sunday, Sept. 19, at the Andover Historical Society. The exhibit, open to the public with a small admission fee from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sundays and Wednesdays and by appointment, is based on the diaries of Abbie Locke who was only 14 in 1866 when she began her two-year diary. The diaries, donated by Abbie Locke Thompson's granddaughter, Abby Kemper, provide a framework for the exhibit which illustrates various aspects of Andover life at that period. Special assistance has also been rendered by Mrs. Kemper's sister, Lorna Young.

Highlighted by a graceful charcoal portrait of Abbie herself, the exhibit features such categories of daily life as celebrations, including the Fourth of July and Christmas, a Catholic and Episcopalian holy day just beginning to be observed by more traditional New Englanders of Puritan background. Church and school, home life and social life form other categories of the exhibit and are well-illustrated by many artifacts from the society's collections.

The diaries themselves are prominently featured in the exhibit and create an indelible portrait of a young girl's life in Andover in the 1860s. While she comments scathingly about President Andrew Johnson at one point and speaks of the troubles in Ireland at another, Abbie largely confines herself to personal matters—her studies, beaux, dresses, girlfriends, travels to Boston and Manchester, N.H. We hear about the family's new dog and envision her, frightened, inspecting the house for prowlers one night when her parents were away. A fire in Ballardvale and an accidental drowning are mentioned along with dances and sleigh rides.

Abbie Locke was born before the Civil War and died on the eve of World War II, a period that witnessed dramatic change in every area of daily life. Yet it is perhaps in those things that do not change that we find our deepest bond with the past. The Andover Historical Society invites the public to view its new exhibit and enter into the Andover of Abbie Locke, a century ago.

The exhibit has been assembled by the exhibits committee, headed by Joan Rollenhagen and assisted by Barbara Alden, Reta Buchan, Marjorie Fenton and Dorothy Tavern.

The Andover Historical Society is a non-profit, educational institution open to both members and the public. For information on open hours, exhibitions, tours, special events and membership, call the society office, open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Completes Navy Course

Valerie A. Rosengarn, daughter of Patricia Sedivy, Rte. 4, Box 538, Andover, completed the Naval Science Institute (NSI) Program.

The six-week program is conducted at the Naval Education and Training Center in Newport, R.I. It is designed to provide instruction for college students who are joining the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (KNROTC) unit for their last two years of college.

The students received instruction on Navy organization, seapower concepts, naval engineering and weapons systems. Additionally, an active physical and military training program complemented their academic study. Upon graduation from college, those who have completed the NROTC program are commissioned as reserve officers in the Navy or Marine Corps.

Count Radetzky de Radetz is on record as the oldest old soldier. He served in the Austrian army for 72 years.

League Begins Program Year

The League of Women Voters of Andover will begin their program year with a general meeting for all members and guests on Thursday, Sept. 23, and with an open committee meeting on the survey of needs for after school care for elementary children on Thursday, Sept. 30. Both meetings are open to the public.

The Fall Evening Reception will be held in the meeting room of the Lawrence Savings Bank, intersection of North Main and Poor Streets, on Thursday, Sept. 23, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The program will center on the campaign to save the bottle bill in Massachusetts. Dana Duxbury, an Andover LWV member as well as LWVM and LWVUS specialist in solid waste management, is the featured resource person. She will answer questions on national League positions on hazardous waste and natural resources. Coffee, punch and light refreshments will be served.

The elementary age after-school child care needs survey will be explored at the home of Alvin and Janet Martin, 9 Azalea Drive, on Thursday, Sept. 30, at 8 p.m. Janet chaired the child care study which began last year. One of the findings made was that some elementary children in Andover had need for after school care. Some services are now being offered, but is uncertain if they are sufficient to meet the needs. Janet requests that parents who have unmet child care needs call her and plan to attend this meeting. The planned survey, as well as any resultant program, will succeed only if persons needing the services are a part of the planning process.

Membership in the League of Women Voters of Andover is open to all. Voting members are citizens of 18 years or older. Other members are associate members. Dues are payable on Oct. 1. For more information, call Ann McGovern, membership chairperson, 7 Hampton Lane.

Dinner To Begin UF Drive

The Merrimack Valley United Fund will hold its annual Kick-off Dinner Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Central Catholic High School, 300 Hampshire St., Lawrence. This popular "Dutch-Treat" event officially opens the United Fund's 12th annual fund-raising drive.

Of every dollar contributed to the United Fund in 1981, 94.7¢ went back into the community in the form of human services. This efficiency makes the Merrimack Valley United Fund the lowest cost United Fund of its size in America today.

Campaigners will strive to exceed last year's total of just over four million dollars. Charles E. Billups, president of the Haverhill Gas Company, will serve as campaign chairman.

During the past year the Merrimack Valley United Fund was able to provide vital human services to 168,908 residents of the Merrimack Valley and Southern New Hampshire. Of that total, 7,985 individuals were from Andover.

Tickets for this annual event are available by contacting the United Fund office.

Boston Guidebook

The 1982 edition of its annual "Official Guidebook to Boston" was published by the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau. This year's 112-page version introduces many new features, a four-color section and numerous informative area maps, according to Robert E. Cumings, president of the bureau.

The publication, which serves as the official guide to the city for visitors and tourists, contains informative sections on Boston history, the Freedom Trail, transportation, accommodations, dining, entertainment, museums and attractions, recreation, sports, shopping and sightseeing. Another interesting section is devoted to attraction beyond Boston—Lexington, Concord, the North Shore and Cape Cod. Completely new are a number of detailed maps for use in shopping, transportation and touring.

Retail price is $2 each for the guidebook, which is sold in a package that includes a Freedom Trail and city map. Copy is available by writing The Greater Boston Convention & Tourist Bureau, Box 490, Prudential Tower, Boston, MA 02199. Add $1 for postage and handling.

Andover High Band percussion section practices for the football and show competition season.

Warrior Band Gets Act Together For Show Season

The Andover High School Marching Band opened its 1982-83 season with a week of practice at Band Camp in Camp Nokomis, Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H.

It was a busy week with a hectic schedule to get ready for their ten scheduled football games and the third competition hosted by the Andover band on Oct. 3 at Eugene V. Lovely Field. This will be the first in a series of competitions in which the band will participate. The shows will be at Spaulding

High School, Rochester, N.H., Oct. 9; Triton Regional High School, Byfield, Oct. 11; Westwood High School, Oct. 17; Wakefield High School, Oct. 23; E. Bridgewater High School, Oct. 31; Barnstable High School, Nov. 7.

The Andover opening competition on Oct. 3 will feature the University of Lowell Marching Band in exhibition.

Band Camp included the music arrangement for the new show, led by Joe Taylor, the new professional music arranger and percussion coach. The band learned new drills and marching steps from Don Jenness, new drill instructor. The flags will be led by Sue Peckham. New drum majors are Kathy O'Connor and Cathy Snow.

Under new band director Allan Minkinen, the show promises to be exciting entertainment for all. Field shows are colorful events under the rules of the New England Scholastic Band Association, a group of 40 high school bands in New England that have pledged themselves to competitive excellence.

This year the Andover High School band consists of 53 playing members, 20 color guard and 12 Indians.

The show will be in memory of the late Alfio B. Graceffa, who was band director for the last 12 years. A scholarship fund in his memory has been set up at Andover Savings Bank, Customer Service, Main Street, Andover, for those wishing to donate.

Hollenbeck Is Awarded Scholarship

Kevin R. Hollenbeck of Andover, a junior at the University of Maine at Orono, School of Forest Resources, is the winner of a St. Regis Paper Company undergraduate scholarship in forestry for the 1982-83 academic year.

The scholarship extends over a two-year period and pays $1,250 annually. In addition, St. Regis offers summer jobs to the winners of their scholarships to provide them with experience in the woodlands.

Cooking Program

Registration is under way for the cooking program at Salem State College, Division of Graduate and Continuing Education.

Nina Simonds, author of the forthcoming "Classic Chinese Cuisine," will teach two series of classes specializing in Chinese cuisining.

Mary Taylor, a nationally known cooking teacher trained in France, will offer two informative series. "Starting Your Own Catering Business" will instruct students on setting up their own catering business, with a full catered event presented by the students for friends. "Eating for Your Health—A Nutritional Gourmet Approach" will be a series for those who enjoy eating and want to adapt their own tastes and food styles to their personal health needs.

Chef Jeff Milne of the Edgewater Cafe in Magnolia and Las Brisas in Salem will teach a two-part series on "Traditional Mexican Cooking."

Charlie Silva, meat manager and co-owner of New England Meat Market in Peabody, will teach a session on "Selecting and Buying the Right Cuts of Meat."

Dario Morelli, manager of Lewis' Restaurant in Essex, will cover a broad range of topics in his three-part series "Creative Cooking."

Sue Tucker, with husband, Mike, and sons, Mark and David.

It Was A Fun Night For Sue Tucker

By Sue Aucella Deacon

With the election results still unofficial at 10:30 Tuesday night, a few cautious campaigners were almost afraid to believe their candidate had really won. But most of the exuberant crowd at 6 Farrwood Drive needed no convincing that it was safe to celebrate Sue Tucker's victory in the seven-way Democratic primary race for representative for the 17th Essex District.

"She's got her power suit on," Finance Committee Chairman Ruth Dunbar joked, as Tucker (wearing a gray suit) returned from a telephone conversation in a quiet room. A small band made up of friends played Dixieland jazz while the victory party sprawled throughout the Tucker home.

"I wanted it to be fun tonight," Tucker said. "I felt all along that it was going to be fun, that we were all volunteers and we should have a fun attitude. Of course there were times that were tense and difficult, but we had a good time together."

The tired and slightly dazed candidate said she had risen at 2 a.m. and spent the day working the polls in both Lawrence and Andover, "mostly in Andover." Her plans for the rest of the evening were up in the air, apart from a telephone call to her parents in Arizona, and a light-hearted award presentation to her husband, Mike.

"I'm going to call him the Can-Do Husband," she said, displaying a tin can with that title painted on it. "He can do the dishes, and he can do the laundry," she explained with a laugh. "He was very supportive throughout the campaign, and he enjoyed it as well. My whole family was remarkable throughout this."

Tucker described her campaign effort as "total immersion. To understand government, you have to understand politics. And you can't understand politics until you go through it yourself."

She emerged the winner, but her opponents made it "a great campaign," she commented. "I want to compliment them on their races. People I talked to were very pleased with the campaign. I think the gubernatorial races could have taken lessons from us — we kept it very friendly."

Tucker declined to comment on her plans for the weeks ahead, which will see her campaigning against Republican Kimberly Cronin and Independent Richard J. Bowen for the representative's seat to be vacated by Gerald Cohen.

"Throughout the campaign, my main strategy was centered on this (the primary). I have considered the November election, but I have no comment on that now." She would say that she is glad the primary is over, and looking forward to the final campaign.

She sees her emphasis on the economy issue as a major reason for her success. "I have a proven commitment to the economic health of the Merrimack Valley, with my work on the Industrial Commission and the Finance Authority. That proved to be important to people. Because after all, the economy is the bottom line."

But she was not a single-issue candidate, Tucker added, citing her "broad base" of support and the "number of different constituencies" she attracted. "The issues of education, the environment, the economic health of the area — all these touched different constituencies, and I have an obvious commitment to these things."

Her credentials impressed voters as well, she believes. "I think people appreciated the balance in my background. I have been

Hard work pays off.

Kimberly Cronin, 8 Punchard Ave., knocked on the door of every Republican and independent voter in town during the course of the summer, and just before the primary Tuesday, door hangers asking for voter support were distributed to every Republican household.

"It was a lot of hard work," she said.

But Cronin won the Republican primary for 17th Essex state representative by 227 votes over Atty. William E. Melahn, 18 Ballardvale Road, who said many supporters of his candidacy may have opted on election day to vote on the Democratic ballot for Gov. King.

"I think we ran an intelligent campaign, and I can't think of anything I'd change," said Melahn. "I'm proud of the way I ran."

Cronin's victory, along with Sue Tucker's on the Democratic side, marks the first time a woman has been nominated from both political parties to face off in the general election.

"I think it's good," commented Cronin. But she noted gender wasn't an issue, and rather, qualifications were, and the two nominees just happened to be women. Richard Bowen of Andover, a former town manager here, will run as an independent in the November election.

Cronin credits her hard work in the campaign as a big reason for winning. She maintained that meeting the voters is highly important, because you have to talk to the people to understand them and the district.

Cronin and her supporters knew on Tuesday they had done everything they could, but she admitted that until the final votes are counted, a candidate can never be quite sure of victory.

"You never know what the people do when they get in the voting booth," she said.

Cronin, a B.U. graduate and former Congressional Assistant, noted she worked hard with the elderly. Her ideas of a senior citizens' advisory board and a senior citizen intern at the state representative's office in Boston were met with interest, she explained.

Other issues she addressed during her campaign included taxes, aid to higher education, crime ("We need swift and sure punishment" for offenders) and "making government work for the people" — the main Cronin issue.

Her immediate plans include thanking voters for their support in the primary, and looking towards November, she plans to begin working soon on strategy that will convince the voter of which person is the most qualified and able to perform the state representative's job.

Cronin is the daughter of former Congressman Paul Cronin. She said name recognition is important in politics but noted no candidate can win on that factor alone. She said voters may have recognized her name, but she added, "They saw the 'Kimberly' in front of it." Cronin said she has the background to back up her name.

Melahn, defeated by Cronin Tuesday, said he was aware as much as one month ago that many of his voters might switch over to the Democratic ballot and vote for Gov. King. As many as one-third of the voters telephoned by Melahn who supported the candidate indicated they planned to vote for the incumbent governor. Melahn said he wasn't surprised, since he appealed to the more conservative voters.

He said that philosophically it "doesn't disturb me at all" to be associated with King, but politically, "I am unhappy, obviously. I accept it. I'm not disturbed." Melahn did not endorse King in the race for governor.

The candidate attributed a secondary problem in his campaign to the number of other candidates in the state representative's race, which he thinks may have been a factor, even though seven of the candidates were Democrats, and only two were Republicans.

Melahn said he was worried about how he would fare in the primary, because people were telling him not to worry.

a teacher, I've been in business, I've been involved in local government. And I love people — I love talking to them and listening to them. I enjoy people."

That love of people was what helped make her primary campaign "so rewarding," Tucker added. "Win or lose, it would have been a worthwhile experience."

"One of the most rewarding things was the phenomenal number of wonderful people in this community, neighbors and friends, who helped me, and the outpouring of support from community leaders. (Among the well-known faces seen at her party were Atty. Lawrence Sullivan, Virginia Cole, Elaine Katz and Sue Luby.)

"It was very gratifying."

Cronin

"I knew that was a problem right away," he said.

Melahn claimed his emphasis on issues in the campaign was correct.

"I wouldn't change a thing," he said. "I did precisely what I wanted to do."

Melahn, who was first to enter the representative's race, took issue with the Democrats over taxes. He claimed the Democratic legislative leadership in the State House has mismanaged the state, and he reminded that they opposed Proposition 2½. Melahn said, if elected, he would file legislation to reduce the 10 percent rate of taxation on savings and dividends to the same five percent rate as earned income.

"I did my job as the opposition," explained the candidate.

Asked if he would consider running again in the future, Melahn responded, "That, I want to think about."

He said he has been the most active Republican in town and has done a great deal for the party, but that it hasn't been reflective at the polls. He said he will support Cronin in the November contest.

Street Dance

"Dancing in the Street" is the theme and Marlborough Street the place to be for dancing on Saturday night, Sept. 25, when the Neighborhood Association of Back holds its annual fall street dance from 8:30 p.m. to midnight. The public is welcome.

The "Peasant Stock" restaurant, known for its gourmet foods, will cater a buffet dinner beginning at 7 p.m. at the dance site. Reservations for the dinner are required in advance.

In the event of rain, both the dinner and dance will be held at the Tennis & Racquet Club, 939 Boylston St., opposite the Hynes Auditorium.

Record Andover Turnout Follows Voting Trends Of The State

A record turnout for a primary election in Andover, resulted in voters going along with state trends in choosing Michael Dukakis and John W. Sears as Democratic and Republican gubernatorial nominees on Tuesday.

Over 50 per cent of the town's registered voters waded through a maze of campaign placards, workers and signed vehicles at Andover High School, due primarily to the interest in the 17th Essex District Representative race which had eight of nine Andover residents seeking the two nominations available.

Town Clerk Elden R. Salter reported that except for some minor difficulties at the opening of the polls, the election department handled the record turnout without major problems.

Difficulties at the opening hour stemmed from the campaign workers jockeying for position at the entrance to the high school driveway, exceeding the limits in some cases and making motor vehicle travel hazardous. After brief discussions and explanations the election day procedures settled down to a smooth operation.

In all, 8,030 of the town's 15,835 registered voters cast ballots in Tuesday's election, 6,269 Democrats and 1,761 Republicans.

Susan Tucker, Democrat, and Kim Cronin, Republican, overall winners in their respective races for the representative seat, captured commanding leads in most all Andover precincts to go with their margin of victory when combined with the Lawrence precincts.

Although the interest was high in the local race, the lobby of the town house was surprisingly free of crowds as the returns came in shortly before 9:30, an hour and a half after the polls closed. Complete tabulation of the eight precincts was announced shortly after 10 p.m. by James D. Doherty, town moderator and former precinct warden.

Among those checking in to get the returns was Rep. Gerald M. Cohen and his wife, Annette, who created the intense local election interest by announcing last spring he would not seek re-election.

Andover Democrats favored Dukakis by 3,459 votes over Gov. Edward King, which followed the statewide trend for that office, and also accorded the eventual winner of the Lieutenant Governor's race, John F. Kerry 2,170 votes over Evelyn Murphy, 1,136; Sam Rotundi, 1,312; Lois Pines, 900 and Lou Nickinello, 476.

On the Republican side, John W. Sears was favored by 877 votes, to 460 for John Lakian and 334 for Andrew Card, the local result matching the statewide results.

In another contest of local interest, Sen. Patricia McGovern received 2,606 votes in her bid for re-election of William X. Wall who had 904 and Michael Kennedy, 162. Sen. McGovern was the overall winner in the district which includes Lawrence, Billerica and Tewksbury, easily outdistancing Wall who was attempting to recapture the seat he lost to McGovern two years ago.

Lawrence's Terrance Breen, seeking nomination for County Commissioner, had a commanding plurality in Andover and other Greater Lawrence communities but was an eventual loser to incumbent Edward H. Cahill in the down county area.

Hart Loses

Andover D.A. Sticker Candidate Awaiting Final Totals

One Andover candidate's sticker campaign in Tuesday's primary has failed, while the results of another candidate's efforts were still uncertain as the TOWNSMAN went to press.

Louise Hart lost her bid for a slot on the Republican ballot in November as a candidate for the Fifth Congressional District, the seat now held by James Shannon. The candidate needed 2,000 sticker votes to get her name on the November ballot, but mustered an estimated 1,500. Hart received 223 votes in Andover and 26 in Lawrence.

Hart decided to pursue a sticker campaign last spring, after the state Ballot Law Commission ruled 102 of her nominating signatures invalid, preventing her name from appearing on the primary ballot.

A spokesman for the Hart campaign declined to comment on the outcome of Tuesday's vote.

day's vote.

Republican candidate for district attorney Mario Lucchesi of Andover remained optimistic Wednesday afternoon, reporting that he had so far tallied 948 sticker votes out of a needed 1,000, including 188 Andover votes.

Returns from several towns in the county, including Beverly, Salem and Peabody, were not yet in and were not expected in before today, according to the candidate.

For The Losers It Was A Happy Learning Experience

By Sue Aucella Deacon
and
John P. Sawyer

Brian Bresnahan with parents, Joseph and Kathleen.

Their names will not appear on the November ballot, but three of the top Democratic contenders for the 17th Essex District representative's nomination are happy for the experience they gained by running in the seven-way primary race.

"It's been a very valuable learning experience," candidate Brian Bresnahan said late Tuesday night. He came in second to winner Sue Tucker.

Third-place finisher John Fox said, "I feel that in the last three and a-half months I've come from a political unknown into quite a viable candidate."

"I enjoyed every moment of it," Harriet Ahouse, who came in fourth, said.

Sitting in the living room of his home at 12 Lillian Terrace, Bresnahan was subdued after a long day at the polls and a long evening that included a party for his staff at the Elks lodge in Lawrence and a courtesy call to Senator Patricia McGovern's victory party in Lawrence.

"I'm very pleased with the way our supporters came out today," he said, crediting "the hard work of my committee, my mother, my father, the entire family. The campaign really pulled our family and friends together, and people rallied behind us. I enjoyed the campaign."

He attributed Tucker's success to a hard-fought campaign: "It was apparent that Sue was really working diligently all summer long." He also noted, however, that "there were so many candidates involved that it really split things up." Bresnahan said he had expected both Ahouse and Nicholas Kolofoles to win a greater number of votes than they did.

Bresnahan said he found it "unfortunate" that the campaign evolved into "more of a visibility campaign than an issues campaign. It didn't give the voters a real solid foundation on what issues to vote for, and which candidates were associated with what issues."

The issues he tried to emphasize included implementing "the true intent of Proposition 2½, which is very important in Andover, and reevaluation in Lawrence, which is very important there."

The candidate indicated that he would support Tucker's candidacy. "I have the utmost respect for Sue — she's very informed on the issues, and she has a background in the business community and the legislature. I feel very comfortable with her competence."

He added a good word for the Republican winner, Kimberley Cronin, as well. "The Cronins and the Bresnahan have been friends for a lifetime. I wish Kimmy the best of luck also."

Looking toward the future, Bresnahan said he would "take a couple of days off and reevaluate the mistakes that we made." (A thank-you cocktail for his campaign work-

Array Of Fall Programs At Y

Registrations are being accepted at the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A. for their preschool, youth and adult fall programs from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday. The eight-week term begins Monday, Sept. 20, and ends Monday, Nov. 15.

Tiger Cubs, a program especially designed to provide the four to six year old with the opportunity to develop self-awareness, self-confidence and creative expression through a variety of activities which include swim and gymnastics and Look, Listen & Learn activities, is available Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Creative Crafts & Swimming will be offered to four to six year olds on Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. or 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Instructional Swimming for ages three to six years will be held Mondays from 2:45 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Parent-Child Swim Instruction for ages three and four years old will be held Monday or Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. or Saturday from 1:45 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. These classes have been designed for children not anxious for group instruction, or for parents wanting to share this learning experience with their preschooler. A Parent-Guppy Swim class for two and three year olds will be offered Fridays from 11 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Baby & Me swim classes for ages three to 12 months will be held Mondays from 9:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. or 5:30 p.m. to 6 p.m., or Fridays from 10:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. Mother, father or both, under the supervision of a qualified instructor will guide their youngster in becoming familiarized with water and teach basic swimming skills.

Tap Dancing classes for ages three to six years will be offered Wednesday from 9:45 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., 11:15 a.m. to 12 noon, 1:15 p.m. to 2 p.m. or 2:45 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. Ballet classes for the same age group will be offered Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. or 2 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. Story time, a class for three to five year olds, will be held Mondays from 10 a.m. to 10:45 a.m.

Instructional aquatic classes are offered to grammar, junior high and senior high school students and adults. Groupings are by ability, ranging from beginner through advanced swimmer. Gymnastics will continue to be a substantial part of the "Y" Fall activities. Class instruction will include floor exercises, tumbling, rings, parallel bars, balance beam and pommel horse. After three developmental achievement levels, the program separates into interest categories for non-competitors, competitors and leadership training.

"Live-Yers," a day-camp-type program for boys and girls in grades 1-6 will be offered Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Activities include swim and gym, crafts, games and more.

Other youth programs include synchronized swim team and instructional classes, teen diving, teen terrified swim instruction. Red Cross basic rescue and aquatic safety, sports fest and instructional swimming, creative crafts and swimming, tumble and swim, karate, wrestling, dance aerobics, weight training, ballet and tap, archery, riflery, model building, knitting, sewing, cooking, horseback riding and a babysitting course.

Dance aerobics and Y's Way to Physical Fitness highlight the adult term. Dance aerobics is especially designed for women to enhance cardiovascular fitness and combines the basic elements of a good fitness workout with the fun of dancing. Morning and evening classes are available. Y's Way to Physical Fitness, a scientific testing and progressive conditioning program designed to improve the cardiovascular and muscular fitness of adults, will meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6:15 p.m. to 7:15 p.m. or 12 noon to 1 p.m. or 7:15 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. Tang Soo Do Karate, the ultimate in self-defense, will be offered to men, women and children in grades 6 and up. Classes meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Other fitness classes include Y's Way to a Healthy Back, Aquacise, Rhythmic Fitness, Fitness for the Unfit, Yoga, Belly Dancing, Weight Training, Fitness for Skiing, Swim Workout. Adult special interest programs include horseback riding, self defense workshop, Creative Intimacy, assertiveness training, breadmaking, apple strudel, patchwork, needlepoint, pillow talk, candlewicking, homemade pasta and pesto sauce, CPR, calligraphy, Puppy Kindergarten, dog obedience and post-graduate pups class.

Additional information, including a complete brochure covering all programs, time and fees, may be obtained by contacting the Andover-North Andover Y.M.C.A., 165 Haverhill St., Andover.

ers is also in the works.)

The thought of running for a town office "has definitely entered my mind," he said. "I will be considering that." Another run at a state office and working for local candidates are possibilities Bresnahan mentioned as well.

Fox retreated from the hubbub of the campaign into a quiet day alone with his fiancée Wednesday, after spending primary night at his home at 50 Walnut Ave.

"A little bit disappointed" by the results of the race, Fox said he believed he and Bresnahan probably competed for many of the same votes. "We cut into many similar grains with some voters, and there might have been some cleavage in that type of vote," he explained.

He tried to stress several issues during his campaign, Fox said: funding for higher education ("particularly in this state, where higher education is a source of revenue and income"), protecting the elderly, and "tackling the nuclear arms question. That is something that should be pursued."

Fox said he would like to have seen a series of public forums throughout the campaign, rather than just one (held by the League of Women Voters the Friday before primary day). By the time that forum was held, many voters had already "crystallized" their choices, he commented. And in a crowded field, the issues should have been given greater importance, he added.

"I would like to say that I'm very happy for Sue Tucker," Fox said. "I would like to be of help to her. The strength of the Democratic party must be a high priority now, and she is a fine representative for holding that banner."

The candidate's immediate plans are to pick up the threads that he dropped when he began campaigning — taking the bar exam, and planning his marriage. But he has an eye on future campaigning as well.

Economic Development

The Massachusetts Department of Commerce, the business service agency of the Commonwealth, operates five regional offices which market a wide range of programs to assist businesses and create new jobs in their respective regions. Typical of these services operations is the Region III office in Lowell which serves the Northshore business community with economic development programs including:

- $3,000,000 in matching funds for skills training through the Bay State Skills Corporation.
- Call One, the toll-free hotline for quick action on business-related problems. (1-800-632-8181)
- SITE (Site Inventory Tracking Exchange) - industrial land, buildings and manufacturing space location service.
- Small business assistance
- Tax deductions for manufacturing and research and development.
- Minority business development and numerous other services.

In addition to marketing its own programs, the Department of Commerce promotes incentives provided by other state agencies. Together, these various development stimuli contribute to an economic environment that makes Northeastern Massachusetts increasingly attractive to businesses.

The SITE service uses computerized listings and video cassette presentations of industrial real estate to show prospective buyers and tenants what is available for lease or purchase throughout the state.

"I would like people to look at me as someone up and coming," Fox said. "I would like to be of public service. There is always the possibility of public office, and once I pick up a few pieces that I had left behind, I'd like to maybe take a look at what's out there."

One rewarding aspect of the campaign was getting to know the other candidates, Fox indicated, "a good group of people who are going to be on the local scene for some time to come. The district can only benefit from these people. I've created a few friendships, and I have a lot of respect for these people — they're hard workers, intelligent people, with courage and competence."

A small group of quiet but cheerful supporters were gathered around Harriet Ahouse's television set late Tuesday night, the last of a large group to spend primary night at the Ahouse home at 175 High Plain Road. "We had a good party nonetheless," the candidate said. "The house was filled."

Ahouse declined to "speculate" on the reasons for the outcome of the race, but said, "Sue Tucker ran an excellent race." The two have been friends for ten years, she added, "and I'm very pleased with her candidacy. She is a most capable woman, and I will support her in any way."

During her campaign, she stressed the issues of local aid distribution and taxes, she said. But she agreed with Bresnahan that issues were not "a major factor" in the election.

"The quality of the candidates and the voter turnout were the factors. Sue got the vote out, and that was important. Andover had an excellent turnout, and everyone should be proud of that."

Ahouse said she will now return to her work as editor of a newsletter for the Massachusetts Association for Mental Health, and as a legislative assistant — and "pull my family back together" after the rigors of a long campaign.

But it was a campaign that she enjoyed, "every moment of it," the upbeat Ahouse said. "We followed out strategy and we did what we wanted to do. And the voters were very gracious. I'm very pleased with the whole community."

For Gerry Grasso, it was a chance to get his feet wet in a political campaign.

He's happy with the way he ran and said, "I learned a lot."

Vincent P. Davey offered a "word of encouragement" to the families of the runner-up candidates, hoping their family members would "use it as a learning experience" that would hopefully bring them closer together.

But for Nicholas J. Kolofos, who topped all vote-getters in the five Lawrence precincts that are part of the 17th Essex District, Tuesday's primary for state representative was a two-part race he lost in Andover.

And he doesn't think district boundaries are fair.

"The territorial districts do not belong together," said Kolofos, who says Andover and Lawrence, where he resides at 35 Ames St., are not alike. "Lawrence needs more representation."

The 17th Essex District includes all of Andover and South Lawrence and Tower Hill.

With seven Democrats vying for party nomination for the representative's seat vacated by Andover's Gerald Cohen, Grasso, Kolofos and Davey finished fifth, sixth and seventh respectively. For them, the popular race was a hard fought loss.

Grasso, 6 Arthur Road, said he had hoped to do better at the polls but said he was happy with the results considering the time and money he was able to spend on the campaign, and also considering he is a newcomer to politicking for office.

During his campaign, Grasso, a teacher for 22 years now at Andover High School, stressed his background, community involvement and his ability to be a representative and serve the district. He portrayed himself as a fighter for education, and he was concerned that senior citizen benefits would not be cut.

Grasso said he respected the people who voted for him, noted he wouldn't change anything and said he may well run again in the future.

"I like it," explained Grasso. "I think people are going to hear from me from now on."

About the winner, Sue Tucker, he commented, "She's a classy lady," adding that he had hoped she would win the race if he did not.

Davey, 23 Enmore St., said Tucker worked hard and "earned it."

"She deserved it, and I wish her luck," he noted.

Davey said after losing a race, the natural tendency is sometimes to say you won't run again. But he explained that circumstances can change, and he noted that if a candidate was sincere about running in the first place, then it wouldn't "make sense" to rule out the possibility of becoming a candidate again.

"I ran on my qualifications," explained Davey. "I wouldn't have done anything differently."

Davey, the father of five children, whose experience includes being a teacher and coach, an accounts executive with knowledge of economics and finance, an active Democrat and a veteran, stressed his background and character during the campaign. He expressed concern about crime, the elderly, unemployment and budget priorities under Proposition 2½, among other issues.

Kolofos spoke out against automobile insurance hikes and stressed tax reform, elderly concerns, unemployment in the area, the high cost of living including fuel adjustment charges on gas and electricity, pensions for retired railroad workers and truck traffic in Ballardvale as issues.

He said he felt he was the most qualified candidate and one who addressed the issues.

"I thought my campaign was a good one," he said. "Issues didn't come into play. It's too bad people don't vote on issues. They vote on personality."

He added he felt no other Democratic candidate worked as hard for the party.

Kolofos said the 17th Essex District should be reapportioned, noting that Lawrence and Andover are different communities. He said Lawrence residents are working, middle class people while Andover residents are more affluent. He noted ethnic problems and the welfare situation in Lawrence as compared to Andover.

Kolofos topped the next highest candidate in the Lawrence precincts by 80 votes, as he totaled 644. In Andover, however, he collected only 95 votes.

Discussion Scheduled

The Andover Citizens for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze is sponsoring a discussion of "The Effects of Living in a Nuclear Age on Children," at Christ Church, Central Street, Andover, Sept. 20.

Anthony Wagner, national executive director of the Educators for Social Responsibility, will speak. He is a founding member of Educators for Social Responsibility, as well as a former teacher and headmaster. Educators for Social Responsibility is a national organization helping parents and educators respond positively to children's concerns about nuclear war by developing curricula and fostering discussion.

Andover Schools, Academy Receive Energy Grants

By John P. Sawyer

Andover Public Schools and Phillips Academy have been awarded over $70,000 in grants from the state Department of Energy (DOE) under a program that provides money to schools, hospitals and municipalities across the state for energy audits, engineering studies and conservation improvement measures for public and non-profit institutions.

Gov. Edward J. King and Secretary of Energy Margaret N. St. Clair announced Sept. 2 the awarding of $1.5 million in technical energy audits and conservation grants to 69 institutions, including $7,650 to Andover Public Schools and $64,150 to Phillips Academy.

These grants, like most of the others, were awarded on a 50 percent matching basis with each recipient.

A technical expert will be hired to conduct an energy audit of all Andover Public School buildings, reviewing heating, electricity, windows and other heat loss areas, according to Business Manager Frank Paul, who has said the audit could be used as a "blueprint" for future energy conservation.

At Phillips, the grant will be aimed at energy conservation measures. Half of the money will be directed at George Washington Hall, the communications building and the Addison Gallery for control of heat, ventilation and some electrical usage, according to Jack Tomlinson, director of energy conservation. The athletic complex — the Cage, all of the gyms and the rink — would also receive attention.

The other half of the Phillips money will be directed at additional steam trap replacements to avoid loss of steam and money.

Tony DiNapoli, of Progressive Energy Solutions in Andover, was the energy consultant who worked with Phillips on what to be included in their grant application.

Grants awarded statewide total $1,593,830 and will provide an energy savings of more than $2,100,000 the first year, according to the Executive Office of Energy Resources.

"This money we are distributing today will assist the larger energy users in the state, such as schools and hospitals, in achieving substantial energy savings," said Gov. King. "We are pleased to provide financial incentives needed to help reduce our dependence on energy sources found beyond the Commonwealth."

The engineering studies will provide a detailed analysis of a building's energy saving potential from no-cost efforts through major capital improvements, such as insulation, storm windows and new energy efficient heating systems.

EOER research indicates that a typical energy audit can show ways to save upwards of 15 percent on a school or hospital energy bill.

Energy Secretary St. Clair, commenting on the payback period — the time it takes for the cities and towns to pay for any conservation measures actually completed — said, "The average payback of most projects will be approximately 1.5 years. This makes the grants being awarded today even more valuable to those cities and towns involved."

Other area institutions awarded grants were: Haverhill Public Schools, $15,486; Town of North Andover, $490; North Andover Schools, $3,500. All of these grants are for technical audits.

Luxembourg Vice President Rogers Lecturer At Phillips

Her Excellency Colette Flesch, vice president and Foreign Minister of Luxembourg, will speak at Phillips Academy on Thursday, Sept. 23, as the 1982-83 Rogers Visiting Fellow. The free public lecture will be at 8 p.m. in Kemper Auditorium, across from the Andover Inn. Madame Flesch is spending the better part of three days on the Andover campus before going to New York to speak at meetings at the United Nations.

She is one of Europe's most distinguished and experienced women statesmen, particularly in the fields of economic development and international economic cooperation. She was a member of the European Parliament from 1969 until 1980 when she became vice president, and is also her country's Minister of the Economy and of External Commerce and Minister of Justice. An 11-year member of Luxembourg's Chamber of Deputies, she is now president of its Democratic party. Madame Flesch was Mayor of Luxembourg from 1970 to 1980. From 1964-69 she was administrator at the Secretariat of the Council of European Communities.

After education at a lycee in Luxembourg, she came to the United States for her university training, graduating from Wellesley College and earning a master's degree in political science and economics at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy. As an historical reference point, one of her earliest memories is of Nazi parachutists landing to attack and take over her country. A later reference point: she was an Olympic fencer for Luxembourg.

Andover's Rogers Visiting Fellowship,

Madame Colette Flesch

named for the former Rogers Hall School, brings a woman distinguished in her field to the campus each year for several days to talk informally with faculty and students about her field. Besides her lecture and informal meeting, Madame Flesch will speak to students in Economics and European History classes.

Youngsters Will Learn... To Grow Old Gracefully

Children in Andover schools may soon be better equipped to face the future with a greater understanding and less apprehension of what it means to grow old and be better prepared for their roles as tomorrow's parents, grandparents and citizens.

A planning team of Andover teachers — Ann Kelly, West Elementary School; Jane Snow, Bancroft School; Patricia Leahy, Doherty Junior High; Hartley Peakes, Andover High — has developed an extensive program of aging education for the Andover Social Studies curriculum at all grade levels, K-12.

Multi-Group Health Plan

Multi-Group Health Plan, a health maintenance organization (HMO) serving eastern Massachusetts and Chelmsford Medical Associates announced that the Chelmsford group will join the network of medical groups through which health services are provided to more than 10,000 members of the health plan.

As of Oct. 1, Chelmsford Medical Associates will join the original five medical groups which founded Multi-Group in 1978: Acton Medical Associates, Dedham Medical Associates, General Medical Associates in Weston and Boston, Southboro Medical Group and South Shore Medical Center in Norwell.

Residents of Andover, Chelmsford, Pepperell, Fannstable, Tyngsboro, Dracut, Methuen, North Andover, Lawrence, Tewksbury, Lowell, Billerica, Burlington, Wilmington, North Reading, and Woburn will now be eligible to join Multi-Group Health Plan when offered through employers.

The planning team believes that all necessary groundwork has been done for implementing an effective program of aging education and intergenerational activity beginning in the 1982-83 school year.

The curriculum is designed to help prepare young people for long life in an aging society.

The program is funded by a Title IV-C grant under the direction of Daniel Leclerc, social studies program advisor for Andover Public Schools.

General goals are:

TO FOSTER more positive attitudes among young people toward aging and older people;

TO INCREASE understanding of young people about the aging process and help them prepare for their future as aging individuals;

TO PROVIDE opportunities for intergenerational cooperation and interaction;

TO INCREASE understanding of age-related social issues and prepare students for their roles in an aging society.

Team members began by enrolling in an intensive four day in-service course which not only provided information on a wide range of topics related to aging, but also provided familiarity with models and resources for successful teaching and learning about aging. Armed with this background of knowledge, the team spent eight days working with Fran Pratt, Acton's TLA Project Director, to plan a program for the Andover schools.

Detailed curriculum guides were prepared for each grade level — primary, upper elementary, junior high and senior high. Each guide contains a variety of activities suitable to each grade with specific objectives, guidelines for teachers, handouts for students and all necessary information for implementing the curriculum plans.

Matrix charts were prepared to illustrate how the activities recommended for each grade relate to the overall goals of the K-12 curriculum. Initial steps were then taken to identify non-ageist reading materials to be introduced in the primary grades. This process will continue during the school year.

The committee met with representatives of the Andover Council on Aging and Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley (Lawrence) to develop plans for involving older residents in school programs.

Plans were made for an effective program of in-service and dissemination as well as for field testing and evaluating the new curriculum.

Library Offering Seminars

Memorial Hall Library is concentrating on career planning and aids for successful job hunting during the month of September.

The library will present George Fisher of Career Centering and a seminar on career changing on Thursday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. Topics include how to approach and understand the job market and how to develop a personal marketing strategy. Although aimed at people who are contemplating a career change or moving up within their field, the seminar will be helpful for anyone engaged in job hunting. An ordained minister and personnel consultant, Fisher opened his firm, Career Centering, in the Musgrove Building, Andover, two years ago.

On Wednesday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. Denise McManus of The Wardrobe Works will present a workshop on "Dressing for the Interview and/or Job." A former flight attendant for Delta with experience in fashion merchandising at Jordan's, she will cover how to build a working wardrobe, helpful to anyone starting out in the job market or working up the corporate ladder.

Book displays and several handouts prepared by the library staff on resumes and careers are also available in the main reading room. Both programs are free and provided as a community service by Memorial Hall Library.

OPEN FRIDAYS 'TIL 7 P.M.

Messersmith-Myers

The wedding of Mary Elizabeth Myers and Charles Frederick Messersmith, both of South Chatham, took place August 7 in Orleans.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Myers of Florence Road, Northampton. The groom is the son of Harry Messersmith, formerly of Andover, and the late Julie Messersmith.

The Rev. Charles Tyler of St. John's Episcopal Church in Northampton officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony in the garden of the Captain Linnell House.

Katherine Beaudette of Barry, South Glamorgan, United Kingdom, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. John Messersmith of Sydney, Australia, brother of the groom, served as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an Edwardian style gown of ecru lace with chapel length train. She wore an arrangement of baby's breath in her hair and carried a cascade of stephanotis and baby's breath.

A reception for family and guests was held at the Linnell House immediately following the ceremony. The couple will reside on Holly Drive, South Chatham, upon completion of their new house.

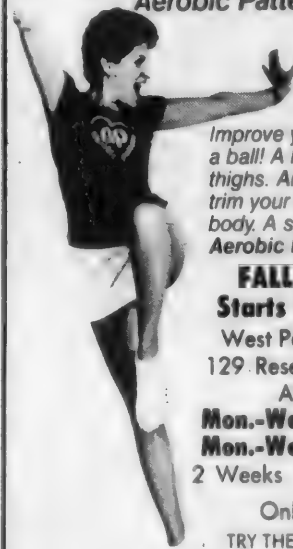

Living History

The Minutemen of Arlington will appear at the Museum of Our National Heritage, Lexington, on Sunday, Sept. 19, from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. to present a Colonial "Living History" program. Dressed in the colonial garb of the home guard circa 1775, the Minutemen will perform drills both inside and outdoors, and will present a brief program at 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the museum's auditorium, explaining the history, musick and customs of the Colonial era. Admission is free. Seating in the auditorium is limited and free tickets will be distributed on a first-come, first-served basis starting one-half hour prior to each performance.

The Minutemen portray the men who fought the British on April 19, 1775, as they retreated from Concord. Menotomy in Arlington was the scene of the most desperate and deadly fighting of the entire day. The Minutemen are divided into divisions consisting of the musket men, the rifle and drum corps, the auxiliary and the wives and children. All dress in period costume; however, no uniforms are worn, since the men represent the militia.

High Holy Day Services At Temple Emanuel

The quality and character of the High Holy Days differs from all other holidays in the Jewish Year. The ten-day period, beginning with Rosh Hashanah on the first of Tishri and concluding with Yom Kippur on the tenth of Tishri, is known as Yamim Noraim, the Days of Awe. These two holy days are not connected with any historical event in the life of the people of Israel, nor is the theme agricultural in nature as are all other festal days. In a very basic sense, the Yamim Noraim are the most personal of the Jewish holy days, speaking only incidentally to the community of Israel. The message to each person as an individual, requiring him to search his inner being, life style, values, relationships with others. The noble ethical values of the Jewish people are held up as a yardstick through worship in the synagogue, but the responsibility remains with the individual. This is a concept of great sophistication, requiring each person to exercise remarkable self-control, incredible insight into themselves and the ability to make necessary changes in life style.

The origins of Rosh Hashanah as the New Year and Yom Kippur as the Day of Atonement may be found in the Bible, although the Yamim Noraim are really a later development in Judaism, characteristic of a religion having emerged from its agricultural origins.

President Helen Wertheimer released the following schedule of services for the forthcoming High Holy Days:

Rosh Hashanah: Family Services, Friday, Sept. 17, at 8:15 p.m.; Saturday, Sept. 18, and Sunday, Sept. 19, Traditional Shacharit-Minyan from 8:45 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.; Rosh Hashan Morning Service (Gates of Repentance) Torah Reading, Sounding of Shofar (Sunday only); Saturday evening service-Maariv, 7 p.m.

Rabbi Harry A. Roth, who is beginning the 21st year with Temple Emanuel, will lead the service throughout, assisted by Cantor Norman Broday and the Temple Volunteer Choir consisting of Frances Ullian, Janet Martin, Marilyn Iskols, Gail Schwartz, Debra Fay, Sheila Brody, Louis Posternak, Atty. Joel Labell, Dr. Stephen Witover, Joan Lewis, Rose Lederman, Bernice Birnbach, Laura Fluhr, Beryle Alberg-hene, Martin Heller, Jerome Iskols, Michael Gold.

Sunday School Expands

The Christian Education Committee of the Free Christian Church, Andover, announces Sunday School Rally Day on Sunday, Sept. 19. Church families and newcomers are invited to register all ages from crib room through adult bible studies from 9:30 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. in the lower hall.

Mrs. Richard H. Guering, Interim Christian Education Director, reports that nursery care will be provided for crib through age two, supervised play with some instruction for three and our year old preschool class and regular classes for kindergarten through grade 6, using David C. Cook curriculum. These materials are bible based, teaching the stories of the Old and New Testament and assisting young people in building faith and making it work in their lives. In an effort to maintain a family approach to Sunday School, bible studies will be offered from 9:30 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. for junior high through adult. Coffee will be available for those adults who desire a time for fellowship while their children attend Sunday School classes.

Sunday Worship Service begins at 10:30 a.m. with children attending the first 15 minutes with their families. "Something for the Young" is scheduled for Sept. 19 and presentation of bibles to third grade students on Sept. 26. A variety of activities will be offered for preschool through grade 4 students from 10:45 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. under the direction of Mrs. Diane Fitzgerald.

New Courses In Adult Sunday School

The Adult Sunday School department of South Church, 41 Central St., begins a new year this Sunday at 9:15 a.m. Following on the heels of a successful new program last year, plans have included the addition of new classes designed to meet the needs of everyone. Classes gather at 9:15 a.m. and study together throughout the year, in addition to caring for one another and meeting socially at various times.

Four classes are being offered for the coming year. Dr. Larry Larsen will teach "The New Testament for Today," a look at how it was brought together and what it says to us today. Don Sorrie leads the beginner's Bible Study, designed for those who have had little or no exposure to a study of scripture, dealing in the Gospel of Luke. Mrs. Gre Jehl will deal with prayer—what it is, what it isn't, why we pray and how to pray.

Lay Ministry Seminary Begins Fourth Year

Beginning its fourth year, the Andover Lay Ministry Seminary (ALMS) of South Church, 41 Central St., will offer a new series of courses aimed at a variety of people, covering a variety of topics. A continuing adult education ministry of South Church, ALMS seeks to train and equip Christian laypeople for effective living and ministry in their families, work and churches.

Fellowship To Conduct Services

The Andover Jewish Fellowship will hold their Rosh Hashanah services on Saturday, Sept. 18, at 10 a.m. at the November Club, Locke Street, Andover. Rosh Hashanah marks the beginning of the Jewish New Year 5743. It also begins the ten-day period of self examination ending at Yom Kippur.

Anybody interested in membership into the fellowship should contact Joan Cohen.

The first class, "Parenting the Adolescent," led by Dr. Bill Newman, Ph.D. Boston University, starts Wednesday evening Sept. 22 for eight weeks. Dr. Newman is a practicing psychologist and family counselor from Hamilton and has designed the course "to promote healthier family functioning by becoming more effective in understanding and communicating with teenagers and building closer relationships." Topics covered include understanding feelings, development of listening skills and problem solving methods. Dr. Newman brings a wealth of insight and practical experience to the class in order to better equip parents for the job of parenting.

Individuals may register the first night of class or call the church office.

When onions are cut or bruised they release a volatile gas, propanethial-S-oxide. This gas, when combined with the small amount of water in the eyes, forms sulfuric acid which can be washed away with tears, according to Massachusetts Audubon.

Nuclear Discussion At Church

Can a young child or adolescent become disturbed and emotionally damaged by discussion of bomb shelters and evacuation routes on the part of government officials? Can we survive a nuclear exchange and should we be planning for survival and the emergence of a functioning society?

Dr. Robert P. Nelken, Andover pediatrician and spokesman for the Greater Boston Physicians for Social Responsibility organization, will address these and other issues when he speaks to members of the Andover Unitarian Universalist Church on Friday, Oct. 8, at 8 p.m. at The November Club, 6 Locke St., Andover.

For further information, contact Mrs. Robert H. Stier, chairperson for adult education.

Ensemble At Endicott

The Performing Arts Ensemble of Cambridge will give a performance of original choreography and live music at Endicott College's auditorium, Hale Street, Beverly, Friday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

Currently part of the New England Foundation of the Arts Touring Program, the group is composed of eight dancers and four musicians. Since their formation in 1980 to promote collaboration among artists in different disciplines, they have performed largely in the New England area.

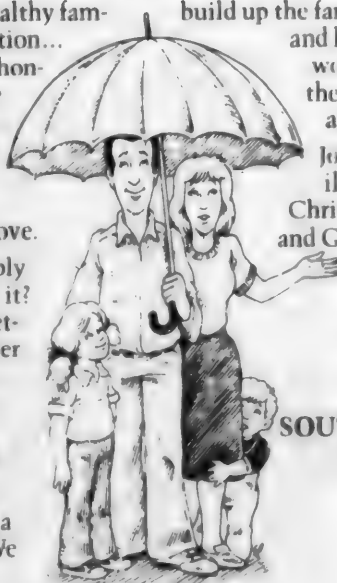

Services At Lowell Temple

Services ushering in Rosh Hashanah, the New Year 5743, begins Friday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. at Temple Emanuel of Merrimack Valley, 101 West Forest St., Lowell. Morning services, Sept. 18, start at 10 a.m.

Temple Emanuel of Merrimack Valley is a Reform temple, a member of the Union of American Jewish Congregations and is under the spiritual guidance of Rabbi Everett Gendler.

This Sunday's Sermon

THE TWO STREAMS OF UNITARIAN UNIVERSALISM

Rev. Rosemarie Smursynski
Harvard Divinity School

This week's sermon will focus on our two traditions, their rich heritage, and how each has contributed to our current denominational identity as a liberal church. This is an opportunity for newcomers to worship with our congregation, meet our minister and members, and enjoy conversation during the coffee hour following the morning's program.

Church school begins this week. Classes preschool through 6th grade.

This year's theme:

Unitarian Universalist Identity.

Services are held at 6 Locke St. downtown Andover at 10:30 a.m.

Roger C. Davideit

Roger C. Davideit, of 711 Vandergrift Drive, Ocoee, Fla., an Andover resident for many years, died Sept. 8 at Orlando (Fla.) Regional Medical Center, Orlando, after a short illness. He was 62.

A native of Tewksbury, Mr. Davideit had lived in Andover before moving to Florida. He was employed as a salesman for the Quaker Oats Company for 20 years, and also ran a carpet cleaning business in Ocoee. An Army veteran of World War II, he belonged to the Andover Auxiliary Police and was a member of the Andover Baptist Church.

He leaves his wife, Jane (Cairnie) Davideit; two sons, Mark of Ocoee and Glenn of Andover; one daughter, Sharon Gaines of Sarasota, Fla.; his parents, Curtis and Ethel (Johnston) Davideit of Ocoee; one brother, Frederick of Lundington, Michigan; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at Lundgren Funeral Home, 18 Elm St., Andover. Burial was in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Anna T. Peabody

Anna T. (Mahoney) Peabody of 44 Gloria Ave., Dracut, died Sept. 9 of natural causes at St. John's Hospital, Lowell. She was 71.

A Lawrence native, Mrs. Peabody graduated from St. Patrick's High School in 1929. Until her retirement, she worked as a foster grandparent in the Dracut school department. She was previously employed by McQuade's Clothing Store of Lawrence. She belonged to the Dracut Senior Citizens Club.

She leaves her husband, Harold C. Peabody; one son, John C. of Dracut; two stepdaughters, Constance M. (Mrs. Donald) Robinson of Westford and Marilyn (Mrs. Joseph) Reliban of Wakefield; one sister, Mrs. John J. Daley of Andover; 11 grandchildren, one niece and a number of nephews.

A funeral Mass was offered Monday morning at St. Michael's Church, Lowell. Burial was in St. Patrick's Cemetery in Lowell. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the O'Donnell Funeral Home, 276 Pawtucket St., Lowell.

Frank R. Wheeler

Frank R. Wheeler of 12 Bow St., North Reading, a former superintendent of public works, died Sept. 11 at Winchester Hospital after a long illness. He was 83.

A native of Lynn, Mr. Wheeler had lived in North Reading for 70 years. He was employed in the public works department for 33 years, retiring as superintendent in 1963. He belonged to St. Theresa's parish.

Mr. Wheeler leaves his wife, Pauline E. (Daykin) Wheeler; four daughters, Eleanor Nickerson of North Reading, Phyllis Luken of Andover, Pauline E. Petrovich of West Virginia and Nancy Balkus of Reading; three brothers, Ralph of East Cambridge, Robert of North Reading, and Clyde of Columbus, N.C.; two sisters, Ella Weymouth of Reading and Irene Donovan of Lynn; 15 grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

A funeral Mass was offered Tuesday morning at St. Theresa's Church. Burial was at Riverside Cemetery, North Reading. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Croswell Funeral Home, 19 Bow St., North Reading.

Julia M. Gesing

Julia M. Gesing of 32 Canterbury St., Andover, an Andover resident for many years, died Sept. 11 at her home after a short illness. She was 76.

A Lawrence native, Miss Gesing had lived in Andover for 20 years. She attended Lawrence public schools and worked as a medical secretary for Dr. Emil Gesing, her brother.

She leaves her brother, Dr. Gesing of Lawrence; two nephews, Frank Gesing of Andover and Richard Gesing of Lawrence; one niece, Susan Gesing of Methuen; and two grandnephews.

A private funeral service was scheduled to be held at the convenience of the family, with burial to follow at Bellevue Cemetery. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Allen Funeral Home, 402 Broadway, Lawrence.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Lawrence General Hospital, General Street, Lawrence.

Charles Jankauskas

Charles F. Jankauskas of 133 Edgewood Ave., Methuen, a lifelong resident of the area and a decorated veteran of World War II, died Sept. 12 at Bon Secours Hospital after a short illness. He was 65.

A Lawrence native, Mr. Jankauskas was a Lawrence High School graduate and a World War II Army veteran who served in the Philippines, receiving the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in action. He worked as a supervisor of mechanics at Schraft Candles in Charlestown. He belonged to Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church and the Holy Name Society.

He leaves his wife, Theresa M. (Beaudette) Jankauskas; two sons, Stephen C. of Methuen, a teacher in the Andover school system, and Paul J. of Vail, Colo.; four daughters, Marie T. (Mrs. William J.) DeSelle of East Hampstead, N.H., Diane S. (Mrs. Utley) Smith of Andover; Barbara A. (Mrs. Paul) Naudeau of Haverhill and Theresa A. (Mrs. Robert) Testa of Owego, N.Y.; two sisters, Elizabeth (Mrs. Edward) Homan and Stephanie (Mrs. John) Fleming, both of Lawrence; three grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday morning at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church. Burial was in Elmwood Cemetery. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Boles Memorial-Baron Funeral Home, 184 Jackson St., Lawrence.

Elise McCoubrie

Elise (Bailey) McCoubrie of the Fridley Convalescent Home, Fridley, Minn., a former Andover resident of many years, died suddenly Sept. 12 at the home. She was 83.

Born in Sherbrooke, Quebec, Mrs. McCoubrie had lived most recently in Lyndonville, Vermont.

She leaves one son, Robert McCoubrie of Circle Pines, Minn.; one granddaughter, Mary Elise McCoubrie of Circle Pines; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Graveside services were held Wednesday afternoon at Spring Grove Cemetery, Andover. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Lundgren Funeral Home, 18 Elm St., Andover.

The wild tomato produces a chemical, 2-tridecanone, which acts as an insecticide to protect the plant against the hornworm, among other pests. Scientists at North Carolina State University are crossbreeding the wild tomato with other varieties in an attempt to produce a tomato for the market that has this natural repellent, according to Massachusetts Audubon.

Library Now Open Weekends

Memorial Hall Library has resumed its regular weekend hours. The library will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Morning Book Discussion

The Morning Book Discussion Group at Memorial Hall Library will reconvene on Monday, Sept. 20, at 10 a.m. The group welcomes all interested patrons who enjoy reading and discussing good books. "Sophie's Choice" by William Styron is the first selection. Several copies are available at the Circulation Desk.

Speedreading Offered

Sanborn Associates' Speedreading Course is again being offered at Memorial Hall Library on Mondays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. from Sept. 20-Oct. 25. Response to the course has been enthusiastic with almost all participants doubling or tripling their reading speed. Registrations are being taken at the Circulation Desk and a fee will be charged.

Ballardvale Littlest Listeners By Ruth Sharpe

Registrations are now being accepted at the Ballardvale Branch for children who reached their third birthday by June 1, 1982. Beginning October 7, "Littlest Listeners" will meet every Thursday at 10 a.m. for a program of stories, songs and games. The group is limited in size, so register early. For further information, call the branch at 470-2255.

Children's Room News By Bridget Bennett

Story hours in the Children's Room will start soon and we again plan to offer a choice of three weekly sessions. Beginning Monday, Sept. 27, parents may register children 3½ to 5 years for either of two morning groups of "Littlest Listeners" which meet each Tuesday and Wednesday beginning the week of October 4. For preschoolers who are unable to attend a morning story hour, we offer bed-time stories each Thursday evening at 7 p.m. beginning October 7. No pre-registration is required for "Pajama Party," and as the name suggests, youngsters are invited to come in pajamas ready for bedtime when the program ends at 7:45 p.m.

Memorial Hall Library

For preschoolers and parents who are looking forward to Films-on-Friday, the first date in the series will be October 3. Fliers describing these upcoming films and other Children's Room programs are available.

You Gotta Have Art in the Park

The eighth annual Andover Art in the Park was held last weekend under sunny skies and summer weather. Sponsored by the Andovers Artists Guild and the Department of Community Services, the show attracted a large crowd who enjoyed a stroll through the park, a hot dog and a soda, and a culturally enriching art experience. Photos clockwise from top left: Ron Katz, 3 Punchard Ave., ponders over a painting; Three-year-old Thomas Witzgall, 4 Carmel Road, romps in the sun with balloons; Ted Traver, High St., captured third place in the photography category; President Gladys Brown congratulates Cory Staid, 83 Central St., on her second place finish of a painting under glass; Edward Collings, 71 High St., stands by his first place etching; Kristina Trott, 67 Bartlett St., took second place in the graphics and drawings category; Wes Grace, 19 Summer St., examines a photograph; Jane Trumbore and Dick Chapell, President of the Andover Center Merchants present Mildred Bartee of Lexington with the Best in Show award; Pam Kostka, 131 Woburn St., and Melissa Kerley, 3 Dupdas Ave., look over a display of paintings.

Over 70 Area Students Begin Classes At Phillips

Phillips Academy classes begin Thursday, Sept. 16, after Headmaster Donald McNemar has welcomed new and returning students to the 205th year of Samuel Phillips' school.

When the Academy first opened in 1778, there were only 13 pupils, ranging from a 30-year-old to six-year-old Josiah Quincy, who grew up to be mayor of Boston and president of Harvard.

This year the new students alone number 454 in a student body of 1,222 boys and girls — it will be 1,225 when three new seniors from the People's Republic of China arrive in October — a tradition begun two years ago when the first three PRC students allowed to study abroad at the high school level came to Andover.

This year the Modern Language Division will offer an introductory course in Chinese as well as French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish. In effect, Phillips Academy is functioning as a national magnet school for languages.

This year 72 new local students will matriculate at Phillips. Joining them for the fall term are seven Kemper scholars from France, Spain and West Germany, spending their first term living in town with local day student and faculty families to learn about American family and town life.

During new students' orientation this week, Headmaster McNemar continued his tradition of meeting with every new boy and girl to welcome each of them to the Phillips Academy community. Earlier, McNemar welcomed the new and returning faculty members. He asked their cooperation during this academic year in completing the Academy's long-range planning effort for the eighties, concerning such issues as the size of the school and the future of the unused portions of the Abbot campus; McNemar said these plans would be made public next summer. Meantime, the Academy is cooperating with the Lawrence Day Care Center, making space on the Abbot campus available for a day care center there this year.

Over the summer, more than 850 students studied at Phillips Academy. The Andover Summer Session, directed by James Bunnell, enrolled 840 in its various academic enrichment programs, including the Chamber Music Program; the Intensive Visual Studies Program and (MS)², Math and Science for Minority Students—for black and Hispanic students seeking careers in those fields. This summer was the first year of another new program, the Andover-Dartmouth Teachers Institute in Mathematics funded by the Ford Foundation. This institute gave 30 high school math teachers from Atlanta, Baltimore, Chicago and Dayton an intensive month of mathematics study, to prepare them to teach at the pre-calculus level.

Junior High Opening Highlights 'Best Beginning In 14 Years'

By John P. Sawyer

This is the 14th year Andover Schools Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert has seen schools open and classes begin in September.

And he said about this year's Sept. 8 school opening, "It was the best."

Seifert maintained that the majority of school staff and students in Andover are decent people who want to do what is right.

"Administratively, I feel that," he said, adding, "I felt very pleased at the end of the day."

Seifert also noted the students were the best behaved he has seen in 14 years. In fact, he said two days before classes began, children were at the schools asking if they could help out with anything. Usually a few students do this, but this year the numbers were greater than normal, about which Seifert was pleased.

A "great deal of excitement," according to the superintendent, was evident at the new Doherty School, which opened its doors for the first time this year, way ahead of schedule. Some finish work still remains to be completed in the school while classes are being held. Seifert said Principal Dr. Richard McGrail and Assistant Principal Jack Hughes deserve much praise for getting the school off to a good start within tight time schedules and the many, many things that go along with the opening of a brand new school.

The superintendent noted the kind of excitement generated by the opening of a new school is not too common these days, and he said the students appreciate their new facility.

Seifert commended science teacher Bob Hatem and the crew of students and Rino Tacconi who helped move materials from the old East Junior High into the Doherty.

"In a very short period of time, they moved an awful lot, and they deserve credit for that," he said.

Staff have been very patient and understanding at three Andover secondary schools where construction projects are continuing, such as the guidance area, media center and auditorium at the high school, according to Seifert. He said construction workers have been "excellent" in their work, keeping in mind the children are in school.

Seifert was also impressed with the efforts of school custodians in dealing with the dust problem at buildings where construction continues. He said custodians have done a good job, despite staff cutbacks in that area.

There were the usual bus problems, but overall buses "ran smoothly," according to the superintendent. He said elementary school bus routes will be tightened up, because in some cases, students first to board the bus in the morning are last to get off at the end of the day.

Seifert was "particularly impressed" with the "upbeat attitude" of school system staff.

"2½ is history," according to the superintendent, who said the primary focus must be on the students.

Seifert said staff attitude is "positive," which is a credit to their "resiliency" in light of Proposition 2½ and the past closing of schools in town.

Honors At Opening

William A. Doherty, for whom the school is named, is accorded honors at opening ceremonies for new Doherty Junior High school last Thursday morning.

Further Delay In Elm Square Project Now Seen Likely

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Another delay for the Elm Square project?

That could well be, the town manager said yesterday, although he will not know for sure until he receives a proposed construction schedule from the contractor, expected by the end of this week.

Town Manager Kenneth Mahony said the reconstruction project should take from 60 to 90 days from start to finish. But he does not intend to let the contractor, Reynolds Brothers, Inc. of Canton, dig up the square unless he is sure they can complete the job before winter.

Mahony said Reynolds could run into problems ordering new traffic signals, which usually are slow to be delivered. If it appears the signals can't be delivered soon enough to guarantee project completion before December, the manager will put the project off until next spring, he indicated.

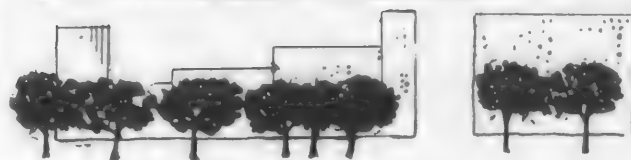

However, Public Works Director Robert McQuade said he it may be possible to let the contractor start some preliminary work this fall, putting in the duct work that will carry underground cables. That could probably be done before the cold weather sets in, he explained, without leaving the street ripped up.

McQuade said the town does not want to see the square dug up until Reynolds has the lights on hand and is ready to install them.

Reynolds won the $187,900 state contract for the project last June, and had expected to begin work Aug. 22. However, delays in finalizing the contract between the state Department of Public Works and the contractor saw that start date come and go, with still no work begun in the square.

The Saga Continues

The continuing saga of Elm Square reconstruction will more than likely add another chapter this week, as local administrators examine the proposed construction schedule.

That schedule was due to be presented to local officials yesterday and a decision made as to whether to allow the project to proceed this year. Chances are that the contractor, who had to wait for the state to sign the contract for a period of a few weeks, will be requested to put the project off until the spring and such a move is strongly suggested.

Construction schedules are well-meaning in intent, but often fall short of the mark, due to such matters as material scarcity, weather conditions and other factors once a project gets underway.

To have Andover's main thoroughfare torn up during the winter months would be entirely unacceptable, and we are not thinking of the disruption it would cause to the holiday shopping season for local merchants.

Winter travel is often difficult at best in New England, and to add conditions brought on by construction in progress would be virtually unbearable. Add to that the difficult configuration of Elm Square in its present state and the patience of the travelling public would be tested to the utmost.

There are, we understand, some other problems relating to the total project, such as the availability of new traffic lights for the square and whether or not they have the ability to be pedestrian activated. Companies which supply the pavement (hot top) will soon be closing down for the winter months. Final landscaping which would not be done until the spring anyway, would, of course, not be a major problem, but still would be a matter better accomplished within the project time frame.

An additional delay in the reconstruction of the square would not be any additional inconvenience to Andover residents and their visitors. Basically the project has been suggested, studied, placed on the drawing boards, moved to planning stages for well over the past decade.

It has been held up by such matters as debating the loss of four parking spaces in the downtown area, to such larger considerations as major reconstruction of the roadway in the downtown area and extending the project to include Route 28 improvements from Shawsheen Square to the Academy.

That discussion and debate has extended over the past decade.

It seems then, that waiting another few months and avoiding further winter inconvenience which could come from initiating construction now, would be in order.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — September 1907

William Foster of Summer street and William Clemons of Ballardvale sail today on a cattle ship for England.

Dr. J.P. Torrey, Mrs. Torrey and their two sons, Bruce and Wallace returned yesterday from a vacation spent at Block Island. The doctor reports a splendid time, and a charming rest. He is now ready for his winter work.

The public schools opened Monday with an increased attendance and 11 new teachers. At the Stowe school some of the rooms are unusually full, the eighth grade notably so, where there are fifty three with five or six others still to enter. There is a slight increase at the Indian Ridge and at the Bradlee School, Ballardvale. There is a considerable influx, the registration being about 30 higher than last year.

The firm of Louise S. Goldsmith and Co., which has just opened a store in the new Arco Building, is something new in Andover and a feature which will be very welcome in town. The firm is to carry a full line of pictures of all kinds, scenes, children's pictures, religious pictures, pictures for dens, foreign photographs and all kinds of mottos.

50 Years Ago — September 1932

With 11 drum corps of the state already signifying their intention of competing at the Field Day being sponsored by Andover Post, No. 8, American Legion, at the Andover playstead on Saturday, Sept. 24, this competition takes on the hue of a championship competition, with several of the leading drum corps in attendance.

A special town meeting has been called for a week from Monday night at 7.45 to act upon a warrant consisting of 10 articles dealing mainly with the relief of the unemployed. There is also an article asking that the town adopt Sections 21 to 25 inclusive of Chapter 136, General Laws, making it lawful to take part in or witness any athletic outdoor sport or game on Sundays.

Rev. Hugh P. O'Neill, O.S.A., of St. Augustine's Church, who was assigned to his clerical duties here only last July, has again received transfer orders. Rev. Father O'Neill has begun his work at his new station in the parish of St. Thomas of Villanova at Rosemont, Pa. Rev. Bienvenido Junquera, O.S.A., is the successor of Father O'Neill at St. Augustine's Church.

At the opening of the Andover public schools the total enrollment of 1533 was the highest number of pupils ever to be accommodated in the town's history. The high school enrolled 407 pupils with seats for only 406.

25 Years Ago — September 1957

A preview of town meeting debate on rezoning was heard at the Planning Board hearings Tuesday night. Not one of the 30 citizens attending the session defended the Board's proposals for up-grading zoning in about two-thirds of the town. And in a poll taken by Chairman Lee Noyes, 19 persons voted against the re-zoning while one was for it.

Engineering research into the best way to supply Merrimack Valley communities with water and how to rid the River of pollution was discussed Wednesday night at the meeting of officials for Valley towns and cities. The research would be undertaken by the state Water Resources Commission if proposed legislation is voted by the Legislature.

Fifty-seven elm trees along Andover's streets have Dutch Elm Disease. Stanley Chlebowski, highway superintendent, also revealed this week that 50 more samples will be sent for analysis, while samples from 29 other trees have not yet been heard from.

Firemen sometimes fight fire with fire. But who ever heard of giving a skunk a dose of his own medicine? Yet when Milton Cole had tried everything else, last Saturday night, to shoo a wandering skunk out of his store on Main street, a smelly "bug bomb" proved effective.

Tarring Detrimental

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Several weeks ago we were all very pleased to have a much needed double yellow line painted on Greenwood Avenue. However, last week Greenwood Avenue was "paved" by the dubious tar and dirt method, covering up the brand new double yellow line, which I'm sure cost the Andover taxpayers a few dollars.

In addition, Greenwood Road is a total mess and detrimental to all who dare hazard using it:

1. Risk of oil and/or dirt on your car, plus a few nicks from flying stones.
2. Bicycle riding—impossible.
3. Jogging and walking—hazardous to your health.
4. Roadway is an impossible combination of holes, ruts and the spine-rattling wash-board effect. (I've traveled better back roads in Korea in 1952-53).
5. Residents along Greenwood Avenue — welcome to the Andover dust bowl.

In these days of tight budgets, I, as an Andover taxpayer, am distressed by these two questionable, costly projects along Greenwood Avenue.

Appreciative

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Our many thanks to the owner of Al's Auto Parts on School Street in Andover who stopped to help us with engine trouble on Labor Day.

Realizing that our car was in difficulty and approaching an exit, we got off of Rte. 93. With trunks on the top of the car and loaded with back-to-school gear for our daughter who is entering college as a freshman, we found ourselves stranded.

In order to repair the problem, he returned to his home for a part and water for our radiator. When we asked where we would find a telephone, he invited us to his home to use the telephone; he refused any payment for the part or his services.

We continued our trip thanks to Mr. Mel Zaft.

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

Win or lose, I want to thank you for your excellent coverage and your choosing not to endorse a candidate.

Your weekly Campaign "82" coverage and your low rate of advertising were an equalizer for some of us with a low budget.

I feel your newspaper policies are the cornerstone of a democratic society.

I know this will encourage other people to get involved in the political arena.

Our community and country need greater individual involvement of all types of people to insure America's greatness.

By Janet D. Lake

Beginning tomorrow, Sept. 17, Bingo will start at 2 p.m. because of the later hour of the hot lunch program.

The hot lunch program, now at the new Doherty Junior High, starts at 12:45 each day. Reservations may be made up until 10 a.m. of the day you wish to attend—except for those who need transportation.

They must register before 4:30 the afternoon before, in order to give the staff time to make transportation arrangements.

Tomorrow, Sept. 17, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. there will be a Hearing Clinic at The Haven. It is free, but you must make an appointment this afternoon by calling the senior center. If you love to sing, you will want to join Helen Robinson and The Haven Singers each Wednesday afternoon. The first Wednesday of the month, the monthly Haven birthday party, the group entertains, the second Wednesday they get together to sing, the third Wednesday they travel to the Prescott Nursing Home in North Andover to entertain, and the fourth Wednesday they travel to the Academy Manor Nursing Home. When a fifth Wednesday occurs, the group meets at the center. Center sessions are at 2; nursing home sessions at 2:15. You'll have lots of fun in this happy group.

The next meeting of The Haven Associates will be held Sept. 23 at 2 p.m. This is the first meeting of the new year.

You won't want to miss it!

The Fall foliage trip is full and no more reservations will be accepted for this Oct. 13 event. There are still two or three seats left for this Sunday's trip to Eastern States Exposition. There is no age restriction for this trip. There are also a few seats left for the Sept. 29 trip to Mystic.

Registration for classes started the 15th, but there is still room in many of the courses. Check with the senior center to see if there is room in your favorite activity, and don't delay or you'll be disappointed.

Screening for diabetes will be held at The Haven Oct. 6. You must call to make an appointment and to get the special die: that must be followed prior to the screening. The service is free.

Monday afternoon there will be another in the Travelog Series at 2 p.m., featuring "One Lap Around the World." You won't want to miss it!

JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WEEKLY SPECIAL

The Pac Man you play might be Mob-connectedBy Jack Anderson and Joe Spear

WASHINGTON -- Is nothing sacred? Now we've learned that the Mob may be moving in on Pac Man.

The Justice Department suspects that the crime syndicate may be counterfeiting those video-game quarter-eaters.

Federal agents recently raided two video-game distributors in New Jersey. They seized $200,000 worth of bogus machines. Among the 60 confiscated video games were Pac Man, Miss Pac Man, Frogger and Kongorilla.

According to an affidavit, a salesman for one of the companies told an FBI undercover agent he had a big shipment of "hot" video games for sale. He said they had come from the Philippines through Kennedy Airport in New York.

The FBI found that two large cartons had, in fact, arrived for the company from the Philippines. They contained circuit boards, which are the heart of the video-game machines.

There is no evidence to link the two New Jersey companies to the Mob. But agents of the Organized Crime Division believe the Mob is implicated in the counterfeit racket. They know that wherever there's a fast illegal buck to be made, it's not long before the crime syndicate tries to take over.

How do you tell a counterfeit machine? Sometimes they have no copyright notice or trademark stamped on the cabinet or the video screen. But occasionally these identifying marks are simply forged. In other words, it's not always easy to tell.

Meanwhile, the legitimate manufacturers -- the companies that hold the copyrights -- are up in arms. That's easy to understand. They lose money every time somebody sells a bogus machine or circuit board.

SEPTEMBER SWAN SONG: Congress will be in a pell-mell rush to push through legislation in the next few weeks before heading home to seek re-election. The hectic wind-up gives industry and special-interest lobbyists their best shot to push through bills filled with goodies and loopholes.

Two of the pro-Big Business measures which may slip through this year involve the giant auto and pharmaceutical industries.

Lobbyists for the carmakers are waging a major fight to relax regulations controlling auto emissions and to delay stronger safety-belt standards.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., is in the forefront of the clean-air fight and has the sympathy of administration officials. But the president's aides are reluctant to become too vocal on an issue that could stir up anti-Reagan votes in the coming elections.

The drug companies are pushing for more time to market new products before they have to share their exclusive patent rights with competitors. An organization known as the National Alliance of Senior Citizens is supporting the proposal, but the name is a misnomer. It's a one-man operation representing conservative views. On the other hand, the more representative National Council of Senior Citizens firmly opposes the legislation.

SOVIET NETWORK: The town fathers of Glen Cove, N.Y., have been in the news lately. They banned Soviet Embassy personnel from the town's beaches because they heard that the Russians had made a spy's nest out of their diplomatic compound in Glen Cove.

The town officials' suspicions were well-grounded, according to secret U.S. government files. Of the 2,000 diplomats in this country from Soviet-bloc countries, more than one-fourth -- 544 by actual count -- are known or suspected agents for Moscow's spy network.

The Russians, Czechoslovakians, Romanians and East Germans are the most active. A top-secret intelligence report says that the Romanians are assigned the task of buttering up members of Congress to glean secrets. The Czechs are given the drab task of poring over lengthy technical manuals available in the United States. The tough spy work is reserved for the Russian KGB agents and their East German colleagues.

WHAT'S NEXT?: Economic experts predict that the miseries of the auto industry will become worse in the years ahead. They foresee that foreign manufacturers will move ahead faster and continue to preempt the field. The experts anticipate that by the end of the 1980s, an American-made auto will cost $1,500 more than one manufactured abroad.

In the past, windows usually provided the only available ventilation in a bathroom. Today, although it may be convenient to locate a window in a bathroom, it is not always entirely satisfactory as a means of ventilation. Adequate ventilation eliminates odors, condensation and prevents mirrors from fogging. A ceiling or wall-mounted, self-contained ventilation unit will provide a better solution. Good ventilation units operate with quiet fans and they may come with a light or heat lamp as well. Your bathroom remodeler should install individual features as a ventilation unit on separate switches.

Warrior Swimmers Begin Practice

More than 40 swimmers reported to Coach Patty Barrett on Aug. 30 for the opening workout of the 1982 Andover High swim season.

Last year the Golden Warrior Wave became the first undefeated team in Andover High School swimming history, taking the Northern Conference Championship with a perfect 7-0-0 record and finishing sixth in a 30-team field at Sectional Championships.

The team has 11 returning letter winners in Dawn Aikman, Jennifer Bottomley, Lisa Boudreau, Robin Boyle, Amy Brown, Tracey Dowd, Ann Marie Grogan, Maegan Hughes, Lisa Kleschinsky, Laurene Lazzaretti, Abby Robb and Diane Sagaser.

Sophomores Anne Costello, Patty Fitzgerald, Dana Grogan, Ann Hermann, Dianne Jurgen and Laura MacVicar look promising and will make a strong contribution to the team.

THEY DID IT!

It was hot. It was humid. It was a hill laden course. But 177 women took up the challenge and competed in the first annual FAST WOMEN 10K Road Race last Sunday. With the temperatures and humidity in the nineties, runners made their way along the 6.2 mile course. They were offered water and showered with lawn hoses from helpful families along the way. First place finisher Judith McCrone, of Dover, N.H., blazed through the heat in 39:29. The runners cooled down in the shade and enjoyed fruit juices and yogurt while cheering on their competitors. Many local women ran well in a field that boasted runners from around New England. The first And-over finisher was 17-year-old Dolyne Divino, 62 Argilla Road, who finished sixth. Also running well were Margot Remington, 76 Chestnut St., Ann Daly, Ballardvale Road, Catherine Tyler, 24 Westwind Road, Linda Fitzgerald, 25 Washington Ave., Darlene Merola, 215 Salem St., and Judy Pinkney, 12 Ivanhoe Lane. Photos clockwise from top: Shirley Foley raises her arms in triumph as she crosses the finish line; Ann Daly, Ballardvale Road, pushes towards the finish; Fast Women race co-director Karen Moss of North And-over awards Judith Pinkney, 14 Ivanhoe Lane, an award for finishing second in her age division; Simone Schapker, 134 Farnham Road, is delighted with her prize for finishing third in her age division; Marilyn Fitzgerald, 25 Washington Ave., reads off times to finishers; Keeping track of times and runners are Jose Parron, Crescent Drive, and Helen Richards of North Andover; First place finisher Judith McCrone clenches her fists as she takes on a hill; The expression on second place finisher Barbara Nelson's face reflects the heat of the day.

Residents On Teams At Dartmouth

Two North Shore area athletes are at Dartmouth College as members of the Class of 1986.

Alexandra "Sam" Chivers, a soccer prospect from Phillips Academy, will be a candidate for Coach Dudley Hendrick's Big Green women's soccer squad.

Co-captain last season, Sam won the 1982 Soccer MVP award for her play at right wing position. She led her club to the 1981 Andover-Exeter Tournament championship.

She also hopes to compete for the Big Green ice hockey and lacrosse squads.

Chairman of the Phillips Academy athletic advisory board, Chivers plans to major in science or math. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chivers of Phillips Academy, Andover.

Patricia Doykos, also from Phillips Academy, will be a candidate for Coach Josie Harper's lacrosse squad.

She earned three letters in lacrosse and lettered four times in swimming and once in track.

President of the Blue Key, Doykos plans to major in either economics or German. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Doykos, 3 East St., Methuen.

Win Awards In Bowlathon

Ricky Gianelly, 29 Alderbrook Road, Andover, representing the Andover Lanes, presented a $2,700 check to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon aired on Channel 5 on Labor Day.

The money was raised by young bowlers who received pledges from sponsors for each pin they knocked down in the Muscular Dystrophy Bowlathon held at Andover Lanes.

Ricky, a student at Doherty Junior High, was awarded an Atari Video Computer and trophy by the Muscular Dystrophy Association for having raised the most money.

David Milne, 22 Cuba St., Andover, second place winner, received a Polaroid camera and trophy, and Gregg Shapiro, 15 Wild Rose Drive, Andover, third place, received a pocket calculator and trophy. All participants received awards.

Swimmers

Junior Lazzaretti and senior Dowd bring undefeated conference records in freestyle and butterfly to the season while the freestyle relay team of Brown, Boyle, Dowd and Lazzaretti also holds the conference record. Kleschinsky, Cynthia Surret, Sagaser and Abby Robb hold the school record in the medley relay.

Lazzaretti was a double winner in the North Sectional Championships, taking the 50 and 100 yard freestyle titles. Dowd was third in the 100 yard butterfly at sectionals.

The team practices every day at the Vocational school and opens its title defense Sept. 24 at Shawsheen Tech against Billerica.

Taylor On Team At Wooster

Ken Taylor, a four-time letter winner at Phillips Academy, is competing on The College of Wooster varsity football team.

Taylor, a freshman, is a backup running back on the Fighting Scots varsity and starts on the freshman team.

"Ken has really made a lot of improvements in preseason and he will be a real asset to the team this season," said Wooster coach Jim Kapp.

In 1981 the Fighting Scots finished the season with an overall record of 4-5, but there is a great deal of optimism in Wooster for the 1982 season.

"We had an excellent recruiting year and all the upperclassmen really worked hard in the off-season. Last season was a transition period for Wooster football, but we feel the Scots are due n 1982," said Kapp.

Wooster is a four-year residential, coeducational institution located approximately 50 miles southwest of Cleveland.

Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, 74 Poor St., Andover.

Football Parents To Meet

The Annual Football Coaches and Parent's Get-Together, sponsored by the Andover High School Football Parent's Organization, will be held Friday, Sept. 17, at the Elk's home on South Main Street in Andover.

Tickets may be obtained from Ted Surette.

Proceeds from the get-together are used to help defray expenses incurred during the season in helping the football team.

Soccer Group To Convene

The Andover Corner Club, which derives its name from the soccer term "corner kick," will hold a general meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 134 at Andover High School. Plans for the current season will be discussed and an election of directors for next year will take place sometime during the evening.

The Andover Corner Club welcomes parents of boys playing soccer at Andover High, as well as other soccer enthusiasts, to attend and participate in the meeting, which will conclude with a showing of the movie from last year's state quarter-final game between Andover and Winchester.

Volunteers Needed

The New England Aquarium has several fall volunteer openings in their programs for people who like animals and children.

Volunteer opportunities include a variety of positions from introducing children to starfish and horseshoe crabs, to working behind the scenes in the galleries, to interpreting exhibits to visitors, to working in the gift shop.

Volunteers also have the opportunity to learn during an extensive education course about the world of water and its fishy inhabitants.

Weekday courses begin Wednesday, Sept. 29, through Wednesday, Sept. 25-Nov. 30. Nov. 17, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. from 10 a.m. to 12 noon (except Saturday, Oct. 9).

Weekend classes will be held Saturdays, beginning Sept. 26. For more information, call the Aquarium.

Comprehensive Plan Goals A Month Or Two Away

Another one or two months will probably elapse before the Planning Board is certain of its goals and objectives for updating Andover's comprehensive plan, Community Development and Planning Director Jonathan Gilmore said yesterday.

The board has been discussing its role in the master planning process for some weeks now, and is "just beginning to form a clearer idea of the direction it wants to go in" after another discussion Tuesday night, he explained.

If they are to make a real contribution to the comprehensive plan, and in turn get the most out of it, the planners must take an active part in some aspect of the planning process, Gilmore said.

"They are still searching for a role." It now appears, however, that they may decide to focus on land use, he added.

Earlier this month, board chairman Jerry Greer sent a letter to all town boards, commissions and departments requesting a list of "issues or topics with which you have recently dealt in the performance of your day-to-day operations...These topics can be as general or as specific as your group feels necessary for good planning."

The planners now have a draft list of goals and objectives before them for consideration, and it is time for them to "get their own feelings on the table. In effect, they have to answer their own letter, developing their goals and objectives on that basis."

Gilmore predicted one or two months of "some struggling" ahead before the planners accomplish that. In the meantime, Gilmore's Community Development and Planning staff continues to gather information and data to update the master plan, last revised in 1965, working with consultant Ronald Curran.

Later during Tuesday's meeting, the planners held a public hearing on definitive plans for the proposed Far Corners II subdivision. Only two abutters attended the brief hearing, and their concerns centered on drainage in the area, according to Gilmore.

The proposed 50-acre subdivision is located off Bailey Road, next to the existing Far Corners subdivision. Developer William Constantinakos would like to build four cul-de-sacs, leaving 18 acres of open space in a cluster development. The planners have an Oct. 19 deadline for acting on the plans.

A Congressional race in which a local man is seeking nomination on the Republican ballot will highlight the state primary election Tuesday in Andover. Paul W. Cronin, former selectman and state representative is seeking the nomination in a four-way race which will result in the victor facing a Democratic opponent in November for the vacancy created by the appointment of Congressman F. Bradford Morse to the United Nations.

The selectmen have informed a prospective industrial client that the town is prepared to proceed with orderly development of utilities in the West Andover area. The board has been informed of a sincere interest on the part of a major, desirable industry to locate in West Andover. According to a town meeting vote in 1968, money is available for installation of sewer and water lines, if justified by appropriate industrial development.

Abbot Academy — its entire student body and faculty, real estate and holdings — will be combined into Phillips Academy to form a single coeducational facility by next September, if the trustees of both schools buy a proposal signed by the two headmasters.

Andover Students At Merrimack

Several Andover residents are among the 591 members of the freshman class at Merrimack College. The first year students were welcomed by Rev. John E. Deegan, OSA, Merrimack president and Rev. Joseph Gillin, OSA, student activities director.

Andover students include: Kenneth J. Hanfield, 7 Hansom Road; Valerie A. Barron, 35 Linwood St.; Susan E. Bixby, 9 Jefferson Lane; Melanie L. Cassell, 5 Snowberry Road; Mark D. Boyle, 48 York St.; Matthew P. Connor, 9 Harding St.; Mary E. Deluca, 61 Birch Road; Patricia A. Dunn, 37 County Road; Joanne L. Fossella, 15 Marie Drive; Jacqueline P. Graham, 14 Arundel St.; Timothy J. Hart, 2 Arundel St.; Rosette S. Jacobson, 91 Old River Road; Dorothy A. Kearns, 23 Pleasant St.; Kathleen E. Kinsella, 25 Kathleen Drive; John M. McGrath, 83 Pine St.; Jennifer A. Looney, 11 Washington Drive; Timothy J. McNamara, 9 Hansom Road; Thomas R. Miliano, 44 Quimby Drive; Colleen A. Murphy, 5 Lucerne Drive; Thomas H. Rizzo, 30 Hemlock Road; Christopher P. Valcourt, 46 Red Spring Road; Peter M. Walsh, 109 High St.; Mary C. Wermers, 19 Kenilworth St.; Douglas A. Awley, 16 Avon St.; Susan G. Seminar

A free seminar, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know about Scuba Diving" will be presented by the New England Aquarium Dive Club on Wednesday, Sept. 29, at 6:30 p.m. in the Aquarium auditorium.

A slide film presentation and informal discussion provides information and opportunities for getting in and under the world of water.

According to folklore, if the first robin you see in the spring flies up, you will have good luck for the rest of the year.

Stroke Club

The Lawrence Easter Seal Stroke Club will hold its monthly meeting in the Johnson Dining Room - Hamblett Building at Lawrence General Hospital on Tuesday, September 21, at 1:30 p.m. Nancy Robinson, rehab coordinator from Greater Lawrence Home Health and Nursing Services, will speak on "Community Resources Available to Families following Stroke." Refreshments and conversation follow the program. New members welcome.

The Easter Seal Society has pioneered in developing stroke clubs, and their family-strokebrokers and their families have welcomed this planned means of sharing their concerns and accomplishments as well as learning from each other and experts about how to live satisfying and optimal lives.

The Easter Seal Society has established a Young Adult Stroke Club for persons between the ages of 16 and 35.

The first commercial wind farm on the coast of New England has been installed on Nantucket where the average wind speed is 17 mph. Information from the performance of the three wind generators, which are mounted on 80' towers, will determine the future development of wind power on the island, Massachusetts Audubon says.

Openings At Nazareth

Openings in the freshman class at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy still exist at this writing. As the enrollment has increased in recent years, the election process has become more stringent. This year only 87 girls out of approximately 150 who applied were accepted and enrolled for September classes. Because applicants must meet such high standards, about ten places remain for academically qualified girls who demonstrate genuine interest in a Catholic education at Nazareth.

Our Lady of Nazareth Academy is a four-year preparatory school for girls founded by the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth in 1947. Located on 30 wooded acres on the former Winship estate in Wakefield, the academy serves about 300 students from more than 35 cities and towns.

Although Nazareth

considers academics its primary concern, it offers a variety of extra-curricular activities and sports including basketball, cheerleading, choral, drama and volleyball. An active parents guild is another important feature of the school.

For more information about the application process, contact the school's main office as soon as possible.

Inventory Clearance SALE On All AUDI 4000's Invest In The Best

Audi Now all of our precise automotive technology can be yours for less than you ever dreamed. Because of the art of engineering, Audi has just added the art of boosting sticker value.

If you buy an Audi 4000S sports sedan with automatic transmission, tachometer, dual electrically adjustable outside mirrors, and a 4-spoke sports steering wheel, you will get that $750 worth of extras for only $250.*

All those extras are fine. But it's the car they go on that makes their value so special: Precision engineering of the highest order, the handling and roadability of front-wheel drive, and a combination of performance and luxury undreamed of in a sports sedan. Perhaps you think we've become carried away. Ask your Porsche Audi dealer for a test drive in the Audi 4000S and we'll see who gets carried away!

The Music Place - A Classy Little Store

If you're looking for a music store that sells more than just instruments, visit The Music Place, located at 135 Main St. in North Reading. Not only do they carry new musical equipment and accessories, but they buy and sell used instruments and offer private music lessons, too.

Have fun while you learn! All instruments are taught - guitar, drums, voice, all reeds, sax, clarinet, flute, piccolo, piano, banjo...you name it, they teach it! All their teachers are extremely qualified, schooled musicians from various colleges such as Berkely College of Music, New England Conservatory, Lowell University, Hart University, University of Vermont and Boston Conservatory. And as a special gift, they'll offer the first lesson free through the month of September to those who register for a month.

When there is something you need that is hard to get, visit The Music Place. They stock hard-to-get items as well as those easily obtainable, all at comparatively low prices. They are able to get and stock everything for every musician, and take pride in offering high quality products at very low prices.

The Music Place is co-owned by Joseph Picano and John Bermiani, both professional musicians known in the North Shore area for their band, "Wind Song." Their music is enjoyable and versatile - perfect for all types of functions.

John and Joe realize the need for personal attention and the ability to try instruments before purchasing. If you are a serious buyer, come in, browse, touch and play. The owners will tell you, "We feel our store is one of the friendliest and classiest little music stores in the world."

If you're looking for musical instruments, accessories or private lessons, don't forget The Music Place. Open Monday 12-9; Tuesday 12-7; Wednesday and Thursday 12-9; Friday 12-6-30 and Saturday 10:30-4:30. Tel. 664-6213.

Kampus Kuts - Complete Unisex Styling Shop

Stylists who "care" offer full range of beauty services at Kampus Kuts, Chapel Avenue, Andover. Located in the lower level of the Andover Inn, Kampus Kuts is open to the public every day, Monday through Saturday, 9-5. Kampus Kuts features the latest techniques in hair cutting, perming and coloring for all members of the family.

Make your appointment now for your back to school styling or a new fall look. The stylists at Kampus Kuts are interested in helping you achieve "the" look for you - a hairstyle that you can wear and enjoy for your lifestyle. If you would like a consultation, feel free to call or stop by to talk to the stylists. You'll love relaxing in this friendly little shop surrounded by stone walls and lawns of the Inn.

Let Kampus Kuts' stylists pamper you with a new perm, a blow cut, frosting or highlighting. Additional services include waxing (instead of tweezing) for hair removal on eyebrows, etc., and personalized manicuring. Senior citizen discounts are available Monday, Tuesday and Wed.

Marie, owner of Kampus Kuts, trained at the Vidal Sassoon Academy in London. She attends all the New York styling shows and keeps up to date on the newest cuts and techniques. Stylist Priscilla White of Andover is especially good with long hair, doing basket weaving and French braiding, in addition to punk hair cuts. Stylist Joanne Smith features men's hair styling in her work. And newest to Kampus Kuts is stylist Sherri Baldwin.

Kampus Kuts is now featuring Cellophane Colors by Sebastian - a non-peroxide tint that comes in a variety of colors including brown, blond, even green tones! These are wonderful permanent colors that condition your hair and give it body and shine.

At Kampus Kuts your hair is cut according to your bone structure and facial features. It is an individualized cut, geared to your lifestyle. And only the finest products are used, such as K.M.S. and Redken. Remember, the stylists at Kampus Kuts feel to you it may be just another cut or beauty service, but to them, it's their reputation each time you enter their shop. So make an appointment now. Walk-ins always invited. Tel. 470-1544

CLOSING COSTS

Prospective home buyers will sometimes figure out the costs involved in owning and buying a home, including mortgage payments, taxes, heat, insurance, etc. After all the figuring, they decide they can afford it, and proceed toward final negotiations.

Then ... something comes up - something they either didn't know about, or knew about and forgot. Closing costs. Even people who have heard about them sometimes don't know exactly what they are.

Closing costs are a number of necessary fees and costs involved in the sale of a home. They could include such items as title search and insurance; land survey, mortgage and transaction tax; bank charges; deed, title, and mortgage recording fees; legal fees; and home inspection.

It's always important to keep closing costs in mind when figuring out the cost of a home. We always make a point of keeping the buyers informed regarding them right from the beginning, so that there won't be any surprises when it comes to financing. When it comes to financing, the one thing you DON'T need is a last minute surprise.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Veteran Carrier Retires

John B. White, letter carrier in the Andover Post Office for over 35 years, retired this past summer. His route which covered the downtown business district was one of the first to go back to a foot route, delivering his route without the use of a Jeep since February.

Upon his retirement, White was presented with a check by David E. Stevens, union steward, Andover Post Office and Linda A. D'Ambrosio, supervisor of mails and delivery, presented the carrier with a service award.

In addition to his years of service with the postal service, White, a veteran of World War II, served as a member of the Andover Housing Authority for several years.

Choral Group Has Openings

The North Parrish Choral Society welcomes men and women singers from Andover and surrounding communities who enjoy singing classical and modern music. Openings are available in all parts as the society begins its 13th year of rehearsals to prepare for Christmas concerts on Dec. 10 and 12. Under the direction of Marie Stulz, the program will include Vivaldi's "Gloria," Motets by Bach and Brahms, "Suite Nativitat" by Stulz and traditional carols.

Interested singers may join the society at rehearsals on Tuesdays at 7:45 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church in Andover, or call Marie Stulz in North Reading or Tim Sprattler, president, or Carol Leavitt in Andover for further information.

High Drama

Tweed takes on a new and creative mood with this Dalton sport outfit for fall. The buttoned front sweater jacket in a multi-color tweed block pattern has decided panache, especially when it's teamed up with this dramatic striped tweed full skirt.

Tweedy Trio

Tweed, in port wine and olive hues, takes on a sporty tone in these new fall Dalton separates. A raglan sleeve cardigan-style sweater jacket makes a charming knitmate for a color coordinated striped pull-on skirt and crepe-de-chine placket front blouse.

New Look For The Executive Woman

Classic Elegance

In fall 1982, Caroline Simonelli of Mollie Parnis Studio brings elegance to the classic grey flannel suit in a lean riding jacket and slim skirt. The ascot blouse is shimmering satin stripes in gunmetal and white.

The 10,000 women emerging yearly from graduate schools of business will help break new ground in management.

They can also be expected to break some rules of fashion and merchandising. Their code of dress is still evolving, but with central canons set.

As women assume managerial places once reserved for men, the question arises as to whether they are assuming men's clothing modes, too. Says a young woman M.B.A. at a New York investment-banking firm, "I always wear a suit. No one's ever written a dress code, but certainly men are required to wear suits, and successful ones always wear a dark suit with red striped tie. If they have to do it, I should too."

If women are the fashion clones of their male bosses, many argue, it is in self defense. Convention does not threaten.

"You have to have some rules," comments Phyllis Albertson, vice president of Associated Merchandising, a consultant group for many major department stores. "But if women are in successful positions and feel confident, they will express their individuality in their clothing."

What else is the professional woman conveying?

"She wears what I call authority clothing," suggests Joan Karron of J.P. Stevens. The style "emanates a presence, some kind of dignity and authority that commands the attention of whomever you're dealing with at a business level."

Typically, the women seen by one clothing consultant "don't want to be fashion plates. They want to look appropriately fashionable, but they do not want to seem avant-garde. They do not want the clothes to wear them."

The professional women's look is not mini-mens' wear, insists a merchandising analyst for New York clothier Paul Stuart.

"It's not just that she wants to wear the clothes that a man wears," she says. It's that she wants to wear the uniform of success. "Men do the same thing."

One caveat that emerges is that men have the ability to assess the tailored look. Advises the vice-president (male) of a major consumer-products company, "Men pay little attention to the quality of a lot of fashion, with one exception. They know how a coat should be tailored. It's the first part of a woman's outfit a man will scrutinize."

In choosing the clothes they wear, executive women are making both a statement and an investment. Both commitments have had a significant effect on the fashion industry.

Sales of women's suits and coats last year, for example, jumped nearly 16 percent, almost twice the average growth rate in the $55 billion apparel industry. No slowdown is in sight.

But the demand for a serious work outfit for the more affluent managerial woman was not met industrywide until early 1979, according to Phyllis Albertson.

Denim Popular For Autumn

Fashion experts from Andover to Paris are still hopping on the denim bandwagon for autumn "looks."

Denim — whether for shirts, jeans or jackets — will require some forethought, since so many manufacturers are now producing related products.

Whether you're looking for one sensational denim skirt or shirt, or just one more pair of jeans, you'll find there's a mind-boggling assortment to choose from. Once you know a few facts, it's easy to choose the best of the bunch.

There are several different kinds of denim. Traditional denim is a tough, all-cotton twill fabric. Cotton/polyester blends are even sturdier. Stretch denim contains nylon or spandex, which gives it its "give." The fabric content is right on the labels.

Check for how the denim was dyed. Indigo-dyed denims will fade when washed. Vat-dyed denims will not.

Denim also comes in various weights, ranging from six to 14 ounces. The greater the weight, the stronger the fabric. Because the denim's weight is seldom marked on clothing labels, you must compare the weights yourself.

Have you wondered if it's worth spending a few more dollars on a name-brand denim? The answer is a definite "yes." Name brands are generally made with high quality denim and constructed so that they will last for years. Cheap brands or unlabeled clothes may be made of inferior denim that twists out of shape when washed and may be so poorly put together that seams come apart or unravel.

The features to look for when you buy:

- A firmly woven fabric with uniform color;

- A sturdy name-brand zipper, such as Talon or YKK;

- Smoothly joined seams with double or triple stitching on the inside and the outside. Stitches should be straight, even and close together;

- A thick waistband (test the thickness by touch) that won't stretch out of shape;

- Metal rivets or bartacking (reinforced stitching) at points of strain, such as pocket corners, bottoms of zipper plackets and tops and bottoms of belt loops;

- At least five belt loops on jeans and skirts to prevent distortion around the waist, with one loop directly at center back, where gapping is most likely to occur;

- Very important: a shrink resistant label. If you can't find jeans with this label, buy them one size larger than your regular size to allow for shrinkage. Denims that contain at least 35 percent polyester, or that come with a San-for-Set finish, won't shrink at all.

If you have trouble finding jeans that don't bind or bag, here's help:

Jeans should fit snugly but comfortably when you try them on in the store. If they pinch at the waist, knees or thighs, or across the tummy, then they're too tight. The best way to check for comfort: squat or sit down in a chair. To avoid that baggy look, make sure jeans don't gap at the waist or sag in the seat.

You can wait for your denims to wear with time, or you can buy the "pre-washed" kind, or you can fade them yourself.
